New President Moves Into White House Office

Hero Policeman And Gunman Buried In Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Like the President with whom their fate became inextricably linked, the hero cop and the drifting Communist went to their rest Monday.

President John F. Kennedy was buried in the solemn majesty of a nation's grief in Arlington National Cemetery.

The cop went to his rest in a gentle hilltop in South Dallas —in a grave still unmarked with a stone.

And the Communist was buried almost furtively in simple ceremonies in a Fort Worth graveyard.

Stopped For Questioning

The President, authorities said, was shot to death Friday by the Communist, Lee Harvey Oswald, 24, who drifted into the Marine Crops and out with an undesirable discharge, into Soviet Russia with a desire to change his citizenship and out when he pleaded with the State Department to let him come home.

The policeman, Patrolman J. D. Tippit, met Oswald about three miles from the assassination scene Friday and was shot to death when he stopped him for questioning—probably after hearing a description of the assassin on his prowl car radio.

Soon Oswald was charged with murdering both the President and the patrolman—and 36 hours later he, too, was dead, gunned down by a fourth man who burst into the national tragedy.

He was Jack Ruby, 52, Dallas strip joint owner. Some said Ruby killed Oswald out of grief over the President's death. Others said the cause of his grief was fear the city's sadness would cost him holiday business.

Tribute Paid Officer

Only a handful of relatives watched Oswald's inexpensive coffin lowered into the grave in Fort Worth. They were his mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald; his widow, Marina, 22; their two small daughters, and his brother, Robert Oswald of Denton. They wept.

The Rev. Louis Saunders, executive secretary of the Fort Worth Council of Churches, conducted the brief services — agreeing to do so when, apparently, no other minister would for the avowed Marxist, probable atheist.

Four hundred persons—policemen in sharply creased uniforms behind the small family —were admitted to the small Baptist church for Tippit's funeral. Outside another 1,000 stood silently in the warm November afternoon.

Fifteen motorcycle policemen escorted Tippit to his grave.

Turning away at the end, Chief Jesse Curry said: "He was an ideal officer...a man of very fine morals."

His widow, slender, blue-eyed and brunette — with her three children—turned away at last, too.

"God, oh God!" she said.

Widow Visits Grave At Night As Flame Glows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day for Jacqueline Kennedy had been a long and crushing one. But shortly before midnight she slipped out of the White House and rode through the darkness to place a sprig of flowers on her husband's new grave.

An eternal flame—placed at the head of the assassinated president's grave at her request —flickered on the silent hillside. Her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, was at her side. Only hours earlier, world dignitaries had crowded the area during graveside rites for the fallen leader.

At night, the two stood alone. After 10 minutes they went back to the executive mansion.

Married In 1953

Some of Mrs. Kennedy's plans for the future may be made known today, according to White House press secretary Pierre Salinger. She must seek a new way of life for herself and her two children.

Among the foremost questions are how long will she remain at the White House, where will she make her new home and what will become of the White House school she set up for daughter Caroline and some 20 other children.

Mrs. Kennedy, a widow at 34, never sought nor relished the public role she came to play as the wife of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

She married him in 1953, when he was a young senator from Massachusetts. When Kennedy became president in 1961, Mrs. Kennedy looked with some dismay at the life ahead.

Mrs. Kennedy, traveling abroad to 13 countries alone and with her husband, speaking French, Spanish and Italian as she went, soon carved for herself a niche of fame. She drew crowds by the thousands and became a goodwill ambassador for America on her own.

Preferred Privacy

She constantly pleaded for privacy for herself and her children, John Jr., who had his third birthday Monday—the day of his father's funeral—and Caroline, who will be 6 Wednesday.

To a woman with such a keen desire for privacy, the ordeal of the funeral ceremonial for her husband seemed doubly difficult. Yet, Mrs. Kennedy not only planned many of the details to give her husband "the most distinguished funeral possible," but took a full role herself despite her heart-breaking grief.

Following the pattern of the funeral of another slain president, Abraham Lincoln, she asked that a procession march be on foot to take the chief executive's body to the church funeral and she led it herself.

Shock Is Felt By Business

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's economy seeks today to shake off the shock and indecision that followed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Whether the economy can regain its vitality remains to be seen. Many business economists think it will.

Shops, banks and security houses that were closed all or part of Monday, out of respect of the President, resume business today.

Businessmen will carefully watch sales, the stock markets and other indicators this week.

Economists say businessmen tend to put off decisions after a shock like this, partly to wait until their own minds clear, partly to figure out government plans and partly to see how the consumer is reacting.

Many seem confident there will merely be a temporary lull.

"When the uncertainty and unsettlement are over, it will be seen that the basic economic situation is no different than before," said Roy L. Reierson, senior vice president for economics of the Bankers Trust Co., New York.

"Unless President Johnson brings the country quickly out of its state of shock," says Robert W. Mathieson, an economist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., "a serious downward economic adjustment would occur."

Death Toll 1,627

EAST LANSING (AP)—Traffic accidents have killed 1,627 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The highway death toll at this date last year was 1,445.

Jack Ruby Has Quick Temper, Brother Says

SOUTHFIELD (AP)—A Michigan brother of the slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald says he believes the alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy "should have come to trial."

But 48-year-old Earl R. Ruby, partner in a Detroit dry cleaning establishment, told a news conference Monday the family of Jack Ruby will support his defense in television's first recorded killing.

Ruby said he called the news conference in his fashionable, split-level home in this Detroit suburb "to get this over, once and for all."

Admired Presidents

His decision that "Oswald should have come to trial," came after Rabbi Morris Adler had interposed, "do you really mean that?" to Earl's answer to whether he condoned the killing of Oswald.

A reporter asked if Earl condoned the slaying, and he replied: "If the man was guilty."

It was here the rabbi, paying a call on the Ruby family, interposed, and Ruby amended: "No, not necessarily. I do believe Oswald should have come to trial."

Earl described his 52-year-old brother as "almost agressively patriotic" and said he was "tremendously in favor of President Kennedy."

He added that Jack, a Dallas night club owner, always had admired American presidents "and always took the side of the president in any argument over politics—whoever the president was."

Acted On His Own

Earl said he was certain that Jack acted "entirely on his own" in shooting Oswald Sunday as the latter was being transferred from city jail to county jail at Dallas, Tex.

"He was distraught and did something," Earl said of his brother. He addedd that a sister, Mrs. Eve Grant, had telephoned him from Dallas earlier saying that Jack seemed more upset than when his father died.

Jack was described by his brother as an emotional man with a quick temper who would "fight for what he thought was right." Asked if he thought his brother more that way than others, Earl replied: "Yes, he was."

So far as he knows, Earl said that Jack never was involved in politics. Jack was friendly with Dallas policemen, Earl said, because he once went to the rescue of an officer and helped him beat off three hoodlums who were attacking him.

INDICTED TODAY

DALLAS (AP)—The office of Dist. Atty. Henry Wade announced that Jack Ruby was indicted today on charges of murder in the slaying of Lee Harvey Oswald, the man accused of assassinating President Kennedy.

Government Tasks Go On As Drumbeat Sounds Die

WASHINGTON (AP) — An eternal flame burning at the head of his grave, John F. Kennedy slept the eternal sleep today in Arlington National Cemetery while the government he left behind stirred from its sadness to get on with the job ahead.

The muffled drums of the funeral cortege had barely echoed into memory when the new President, Lyndon B. Johnson, plunged into a series of meetings on foreign and domestic problems.

Joint Session Wednesday

Mingling with the foreign luminaries here to pay final respects to his fallen chief, Johnson won from President Charles de Gaulle of France and Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson of Canada pledges to return next year for extended talks.

Economic advisers were called in to discuss the budget Johnson must send to Congress in January. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson was told to continue at the United Nations efforts to secure international cooperation in outer space. The 35 governors here for Kennedy's funeral heard the President promise "continuity without confusion" of the Kennedy program.

Today, Johnson moves into the White House presidential office, continues his conferences with foreign dignitaries and prepares for his address to a joint session of Congress Wednesday.

The day of Kennedy's last journey was sharp and clear, its bright crispness in sharp contrast to the gray sorrow that etched the faces of the million people who lined the streets of Washington to say goodby.

Bagpipes Play

Nine servicemen bore the bier from the Capitol as the band played "Hail to the Chief." To the steady beat and roll of drums and the mournful tolling of church bells, the caisson rolled up Pennsylvania Avenue along the historic route the young President had traveled after his inauguration less than three years ago.

As the caisson turned the corner by the Treasury building a woman broke into a high pitched wail.

At the White House, Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, Robert and Edward, left their limousine while the caisson paused for a few minutes at the north portico.

As bagpipes played, the mourners began an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

A sailor carrying the presidential flag followed the caisson. Next, led by a serviceman, pranced a riderless horse symbolic of the fallen warrior.

Then, with her head held high and her black veil draping her shoulders, the President's widow marched with the Kennedy brothers at her side.

Medals Glitter

President and Mrs. Johnson, next in line, were surrounded by Secret Service men.

Tall fur hats of the East contrasted with top hats of the West as the representatives of 91 nations stepped along.

Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia glittered with ribbons and decorations. Towering beside him was austere Charles de Gaulle. Nearby was the beautiful Queen Frederika of Greece, dressed in a black fur coat. At her side, King Baudouin of the Belgians, a black band on the sleeve of his tan, bemedaled uniform.

Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston who had officiated at the Kennedy wedding in 1953, came

Thaw Indicated In U.S.-French Chilly Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A thaw in the chilly U.S.-French relations appears possible following the announcement that Presidents Johnson and Charles de Gaulle will meet here early next year.

The surprise announcement came from President Johnson after he had spent 18 minutes in private conference with the French president at a reception late Monday for foreign dignitaries who attended President John F. Kennedy's funeral.

Johnson, obviously plunging into the monumental tasks before him with rapidity, came out from the conference room and said, "We have decided he would come back and talk more early next year." To give it further emphasis he told newsmen: "Sure, you can quote me."

De Gaulle originally had planned to meet with Kennedy, probably in February, and arrangements had been completed. It appeared the two men swiftly came to agreement on the need for early talks to clear up standing differences between the two long-time allies.

The tall French president was given the center of attention at the reception, as he has been since he arrived Sunday for the funeral. He was in relaxed, chatty form.

Announcement of the meeting came amid general speculation on how Johnson and De Gaulle will get along.

The answer would appear to be that they will get along well personally, but any changes in policy would have to come from the American side.

De Gaulle, who regards world affairs in the broad, historic sense, is a stubborn man with fixed ideas, devoted to France. He is not malleable, as he frequently illustrated in his differences with Kennedy.

Civic Building At Santa Monica Honors Kennedy

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) The city of Santa Monica, proud of its occasional association with John F. Kennedy, is renaming its civic auditorium in his honor.

Mayor Rex Minter said Monday that at a name-changing ceremony in about two weeks. The building will be known as the John F. Kennedy Memorial Auditorium.

During his public life, President Kennedy often visited the Santa Monica beachfront home of his sister, Mrs. Peter Lawford.

Today's Chuckle

Detailed Report Of FBI Ordered On Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the FBI to prepare a detailed report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and that the people be told all the facts.

The report is to cover, too, the fatal shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused slayer of the late president, the White House announced Monday.

Johnson has "directed all federal agencies to cooperate," the White House said.

The announcement came after Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the assistant House Democratic leader, suggested a high-level congressional investigation of Kennnedy's assassination.

Citing the fact that the killing of Oswald, 24, aborted the normal public disclosure and weighing of evidence in a trial, Boggs said he thinks Congress should conduct a careful inquiry to determine the facts, assemble them for public consideration and try to answer any questions that may linger in Americans' minds.

Authorities in Dallas, where a sniper's rifle bullets ended Kennedy's life Friday, say the evidence is conclusive and that the case is closed—so far as the question of Oswald's guilt or innocence is concerned.

Perhaps feeling that there is still some uneasiness in the public mind, Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry said his department intends to make all the evidence public unless federal agencies want some withheld.

A further problem is the persistent campaign by some Soviet propaganda agencies to depict the killing of Oswald, who had steadily protested his innocence, as part of a right-wing plot that took the president's life.

Boggs said he favors a "blue-ribbon inquiry, far above any suggestion of partisanship."

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, said he will introduce legislation making any assault on the president, vice president or other high executive or judicial officers a federal crime. Such a statute would guarantee quick FBI action in any such case, Ayres said.

The killing of the President was considered likely to revive interest in a bill now pending in the Senate Commerce Committee to regulate the sale of firearms by mail.

The FBI has said the rifle with which the President was shot was bought by mail.

The pending bill, by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would require persons buying firearms by mail to certify they were not under 18, had not been convicted of a felony and that the purchase would not violate local law.

Nation's Whole Setup On Trial, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson moved full-time into the workaday affairs of the presidency today and signaled the shift by transferring operations to the oval office of chief executives in the White House.

He was early on the job, driving into the executive mansion grounds at 8:45 a.m., just 11 hours after the close of a long day given in large part to last honors for his slain predecessor, John F. Kennedy, and to somewhat ceremonial contacts with world leaders who came to mourn.

On tap for the first day in the new office were meetings with foreign dignitaries and preparation of an address Wednesday to a joint session of Congress.

Tax Cut Discussed

Johnson, in his first speech since becoming chief executive, made evident Monday night his belief that the Kennedy assassination puts the American system to a severe test and must prompt renewed efforts to prove that the system, despite one sniper's act, is superior to any other.

Beyond that, Johnson pledged "continuity without confusion" —a continuation of Kennedy administration programs and policy aims without any immediate shakeup of top officials that might puzzle and perturb the nation and the world.

The governors said Johnson appealed specifically for support for Kennedy's two principal domestic programs — the omnibus civil rights bill and the $11-billion tax cut.

Johnson's assessment of the needs of the day was delivered off the cuff to 35 state governors who met with him long after sunset.

This was not his final meeting of the busy day. His schedule was topped off by a late evening session with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and the Council of Economic Advisers. This meeting took up the tax cut proposal and the broad outlines of the federal budget that will go to Congress in January.

Johnson headed for his home in the Spring Valley section of the city at 10:45 p.m., giving every sign that, even before moving into the White House, he was operating under a full head of steam.

Meets Foreign Delegates

For today, Johnson lined up conferences with some of the many foreign dignitaries who flew to Washington for the Kennedy funeral.

Johnson arranged to visit with the new British prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home; with the president of the Philippines, Diosdado Macapagal, and with the new West German chancellor, Ludwig Erhard.

The President saw all three—and many more—at a reception Monday night at the State Department, before he met with the governors.

In addition to greeting all foreign delegates to the Kennedy funeral, Johnson spent 18 minutes privately with President Charles de Gaulle of France eight minutes with Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada and 12 minutes with Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan.

Johnson told the governors that at his meeting with De Gaulle, "we did not finish" the conversation "so we have another meeting set up for early in the year when he comes back to this country."

In this offhand way Johnson announced for the first time that De Gaulle, who has been taking sharp issue with the United States for nearly a year, would make the American visit he had planned before Kennedy's death.

Governors Pledge Help

Speaking to the governors, Johnson said: "Circumstances over which I had no control brought me into this position that I occupy tonight. The difficulties and the tribulations are great and this is the time when our whole system is on trial—not just the Republican party and the Democratic party but the American system of government."

He went on to speak of the often-superior resources of the

Widow Visits Grave At Night As Flame Glows

WASHINGTON (AP) — The day for Jacqueline Kennedy had been a long and crushing one. But shortly before midnight she slipped out of the White House and rode through the darkness to place a sprig of flowers on her husband's new grave.

An eternal flame—placed at the head of the assassinated president's grave at her request —flickered on the silent hillside. Her brother-in-law, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, was at her side. Only hours earlier, world dignitaries had crowded the area during graveside rites for the fallen leader.

At night, the two stood alone. After 10 minutes they went back to the executive mansion.

Married In 1953

Some of Mrs. Kennedy's plans for the future may be made known today, according to White House press secretary Pierre Salinger. She must seek a new way of life for herself and her two children.

Among the foremost questions are how long will she remain at the White House, where will she make her new home and what will become of the White House school she set up for daughter Caroline and some 20 other children.

Mrs. Kennedy, a widow at 34, never sought nor relished the public role she came to play as the wife of John Fitzgerald Kennedy.

She married him in 1953, when he was a young senator from Massachusetts. When Kennedy became president in 1961, Mrs. Kennedy looked with some dismay at the life ahead.

Mrs. Kennedy, traveling abroad to 13 countries alone and with her husband, speaking French, Spanish and Italian as she went, soon carved for herself a niche of fame. She drew crowds by the thousands and became a goodwill ambassador for America on her own.

Preferred Privacy

She constantly pleaded for privacy for herself and her children, John Jr., who had his third birthday Monday—the day of his father's funeral—and Caroline, who will be 6 Wednesday.

To a woman with such a keen desire for privacy, the ordeal of the funeral ceremonial for her husband seemed doubly difficult. Yet, Mrs. Kennedy not only planned many of the details to give her husband "the most distinguished funeral possible," but took a full role herself despite her heart-breaking grief.

Following the pattern of the funeral of another slain president, Abraham Lincoln, she asked that a procession march be on foot to take the chief executive's body to the church funeral and she led it herself.

Shock Is Felt By Business

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's economy seeks today to shake off the shock and indecision that followed the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

Whether the economy can regain its vitality remains to be seen. Many business economists think it will.

Shops, banks and security houses that were closed all or part of Monday, out of respect of the President, resume business today.

Businessmen will carefully watch sales, the stock markets and other indicators this week.

Economists say businessmen tend to put off decisions after a shock like this, partly to wait until their own minds clear, partly to figure out government plans and partly to see how the consumer is reacting.

Many seem confident there will merely be a temporary lull.

"When the uncertainty and unsettlement are over, it will be seen that the basic economic situation is no different than before," said Roy L. Reierson, senior vice president for economics of the Bankers Trust Co., New York.

"Unless President Johnson brings the country quickly out of its state of shock," says Robert W. Mathieson, an economist for the International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., "a serious downward economic adjustment would occur."

EAST LANSING (AP)—Traffic accidents have killed 1,627 persons in Michigan so far this year, provisional figures compiled by state police showed today. The highway death toll at this date last year was 1,445.

Jack Ruby Has Quick Temper, Brother Says

SOUTHFIELD (AP)—A Michigan brother of the slayer of Lee Harvey Oswald says he believes the alleged assassin of President John F. Kennedy "should have come to trial."

But 48-year-old Earl R. Ruby, partner in a Detroit dry cleaning establishment, told a news conference Monday the family of Jack Ruby will support his defense in television's first recorded killing.

Ruby said he called the news conference in his fashionable, split-level home in this Detroit suburb "to get this over, once and for all."

Admired Presidents

His decision that "Oswald should have come to trial," came after Rabbi Morris Adler had interposed, "do you really mean that?" to Earl's answer to whether he condoned the killing of Oswald.

A reporter asked if Earl condoned the slaying, and he replied: "If the man was guilty."

It was here the rabbi, paying a call on the Ruby family, interposed, and Ruby amended: "No, not necessarily. I do believe Oswald should have come to trial."

Earl described his 52-year-old brother as "almost agressively patriotic" and said he was "tremendously in favor of President Kennedy."

He added that Jack, a Dallas night club owner, always had admired American presidents "and always took the side of the president in any argument over politics—whoever the president was."

Acted On His Own

Earl said he was certain that Jack acted "entirely on his own" in shooting Oswald Sunday as the latter was being transferred from city jail to county jail at Dallas, Tex.

As the caisson turned the corner by the Treasury building a woman broke into a high pitched wail.

At the White House, Mrs. Kennedy and the two Kennedy brothers, Robert and Edward, left their limousine while the caisson paused for a few minutes at the north portico.

As bagpipes played, the mourners began an eight-block march to St. Matthew's Roman Catholic Cathedral.

A sailor carrying the presidential flag followed the caisson. Next, led by a serviceman, pranced a riderless horse symbolic of the fallen warrior.

Then, with her head held high and her black veil draping her shoulders, the President's widow marched with the Kennedy brothers at her side.

Medals Glitter

President and Mrs. Johnson, next in line, were surrounded by Secret Service men.

Tall fur hats of the East contrasted with top hats of the West as the representatives of 91 nations stepped along.

Thaw Indicated In U.S.-French Chilly Relations

WASHINGTON (AP)—A thaw in the chilly U.S.-French relations appears possible following the announcement that Presidents Johnson and Charles de Gaulle will meet here early next year.

The surprise announcement came from President Johnson after he had spent 18 minutes in private conference with the French president at a reception late Monday for foreign dignitaries who attended President John F. Kennedy's funeral.

Johnson, obviously plunging into the monumental tasks before him with rapidity, came out from the conference room and said, "We have decided he would come back and talk more early next year." To give it further emphasis he told newsmen: "Sure, you can quote me."

De Gaulle originally had planned to meet with Kennedy, probably in February, and arrangements had been completed. It appeared the two men swiftly came to agreement on the need for early talks to clear up standing differences between the two long-time allies.

The tall French president was given the center of attention at the reception, as he has been since he arrived Sunday for the funeral. He was in relaxed, chatty form.

Announcement of the meeting came amid general speculation on how Johnson and De Gaulle will get along.

The answer would appear to be that they will get along well personally, but any changes in policy would have to come from the American side.

De Gaulle, who regards world affairs in the broad, historic sense, is a stubborn man with fixed ideas, devoted to France. He is not malleable, as he frequently illustrated in his differences with Kennedy.

Civic Building At Santa Monica Honors Kennedy

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) The city of Santa Monica, proud of its occasional association with John F. Kennedy, is renaming its civic auditorium in his honor.

Mayor Rex Minter said Monday that at a name-changing ceremony in about two weeks. The building will be known as the John F. Kennedy Memorial Auditorium.

Detailed Report Of FBI Ordered On Assassination

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has ordered the FBI to prepare a detailed report on the assassination of President John F. Kennedy and that the people be told all the facts.

The report is to cover, too, the fatal shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, the accused slayer of the late president, the White House announced Monday.

Johnson has "directed all federal agencies to cooperate," the White House said.

The announcement came after Rep. Hale Boggs of Louisiana, the assistant House Democratic leader, suggested a high-level congressional investigation of Kennnedy's assassination.

Citing the fact that the killing of Oswald, 24, aborted the normal public disclosure and weighing of evidence in a trial, Boggs said he thinks Congress should conduct a careful inquiry to determine the facts, assemble them for public consideration and try to answer any questions that may linger in Americans' minds.

Authorities in Dallas, where a sniper's rifle bullets ended Kennedy's life Friday, say the evidence is conclusive and that the case is closed—so far as the question of Oswald's guilt or innocence is concerned.

Perhaps feeling that there is still some uneasiness in the public mind, Dallas Police Chief Jesse Curry said his department intends to make all the evidence public unless federal agencies want some withheld.

A further problem is the persistent campaign by some Soviet propaganda agencies to depict the killing of Oswald, who had steadily protested his innocence, as part of a right-wing plot that took the president's life.

Boggs said he favors a "blue-ribbon inquiry, far above any suggestion of partisanship."

Rep. William H. Ayres, R-Ohio, said he will introduce legislation making any assault on the president, vice president or other high executive or judicial officers a federal crime. Such a statute would guarantee quick FBI action in any such case, Ayres said.

The killing of the President was considered likely to revive interest in a bill now pending in the Senate Commerce Committee to regulate the sale of firearms by mail.

The FBI has said the rifle with which the President was shot was bought by mail.

The pending bill, by Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., would require persons buying firearms by mail to certify they were not under 18, had not been convicted of a felony and that the purchase would not violate local law.

Nation's Whole Setup On Trial, Johnson Says

WASHINGTON (AP)—Lyndon B. Johnson moved full-time into the workaday affairs of the presidency today and signaled the shift by transferring operations to the oval office of chief executives in the White House.

He was early on the job, driving into the executive mansion grounds at 8:45 a.m., just 11 hours after the close of a long day given in large part to last honors for his slain predecessor, John F. Kennedy, and to somewhat ceremonial contacts with world leaders who came to mourn.

On tap for the first day in the new office were meetings with foreign dignitaries and preparation of an address Wednesday to a joint session of Congress.

Tax Cut Discussed

Johnson, in his first speech since becoming chief executive, made evident Monday night his belief that the Kennedy assassination puts the American system to a severe test and must prompt renewed efforts to prove that the system, despite one sniper's act, is superior to any other.

Beyond that, Johnson pledged "continuity without confusion" —a continuation of Kennedy administration programs and policy aims without any immediate shakeup of top officials that might puzzle and perturb the nation and the world.

The governors said Johnson appealed specifically for support for Kennedy's two principal domestic programs — the omnibus civil rights bill and the $11-billion tax cut.

Johnson's assessment of the needs of the day was delivered off the cuff to 35 state governors who met with him long after sunset.

This was not his final meeting of the busy day. His schedule was topped off by a late evening session with Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and the Council of Economic Advisers. This meeting took up the tax cut proposal and the broad outlines of the federal budget that will go to Congress in January.

Johnson headed for his home in the Spring Valley section of the city at 10:45 p.m., giving every sign that, even before moving into the White House, he was operating under a full head of steam.

Meets Foreign Delegates

For today, Johnson lined up conferences with some of the many foreign dignitaries who flew to Washington for the Kennedy funeral.

Johnson arranged to visit with the new British prime minister, Sir Alec Douglas-Home; with the president of the Philippines, Diosdado Macapagal, and with the new West German chancellor, Ludwig Erhard.

The President saw all three—and many more—at a reception Monday night at the State Department, before he met with the governors.

In addition to greeting all foreign delegates to the Kennedy funeral, Johnson spent 18 minutes privately with President Charles de Gaulle of France eight minutes with Prime Minister Lester Pearson of Canada and 12 minutes with Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda of Japan.

Johnson told the governors that at his meeting with De Gaulle, "we did not finish" the conversation "so we have another meeting set up for early in the year when he comes back to this country."

In this offhand way Johnson announced for the first time that De Gaulle, who has been taking sharp issue with the United States for nearly a year, would make the American visit he had planned before Kennedy's death.

Governors Pledge Help

Speaking to the governors, Johnson said: "Circumstances over which I had no control brought me into this position that I occupy tonight. The difficulties and the tribulations are great and this is the time when our whole system is on trial—not just the Republican party and the Democratic party but the American system of government."

He went on to speak of the often-superior resources of the

Recover Body Of Paul Louis

GLADSTONE — The body of 54-year-old Paul Louis, Gladstone city clerk, was recovered from Forsythe Lake shortly after 4 p. m., Monday in about eight to ten feet of water.

He is Delta County's seventh drowning victim of 1963.

Recovery of the body ended a three-day search of the area for Louis, who had been missing since last Saturday morning. He had left for his camp, on the east shore of Forsythe Lake, Friday evening by boat. Early Saturday morning the boat was found bobbing against the shoreline at the south end of the lake with Louis' rifle and flashlight still in it.

Sheriff's officers, State Police of the Gladstone Post, volunteers and city employes joined the search for Louis. Skindivers from the Marquette and Manistique State Police Posts were also used Saturday and Sunday.

State Police said Louis' body was found about 150-feet northeast of the boat landing at his camp. It was recovered by Bob Olson and Joe Casimer, both of Gladstone. Forsythe Lake is about three-quarters of a mile long and about a half-mile wide. It is located about 15-20 miles northeast of Rapid River.

Paul A. Louis was born Jan. 11, 1909 in Gladstone, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Louis.

He attended the Gladstone schools and also Ferris Institute. He served in the Eighth Army Air Corps in England from 1941-45 and was discharged with the rank of Master Sargent.

Mr. Louis was employed with the Department of Revenue from 1945 until 1952 when he took employment as the Gladstone deputy city clerk. He was appointed city treasurer in 1959 and has served in that capacity since.

He was a member of All Saints Catholic Church, the Holy Name Society, August Mattson Post of the American Legion, V. F. W., Gladstone Lions Club, Child's Welfare Club and of the Gladstone Yacht Club.

Survivors include his wife, the former Edna Fulton, whom he married Dec. 2, 1947; one sister, Mrs. George Minne of Gladstone; two brothers, Laurence of Gladstone and Raymond of Menominee.

The body was taken to the Skradski Funeral Home where friends may call after 4 p. m. today. Liturgical Prayers will be recited at 8 p. m. today.

Funeral services will be conducted at 9 a. m. Wednesday from All Saints Church with Father Matt LaViolette officiating. Burial will be in Fernwood Cemetery.

Military Rites will be conducted by the August Mattson Post of the American Legion.

Inland Plans Canada Plant

IRON RIVER—Plans were announced last weekend for an iron ore processing and pelletizing plant at Steep Rock Lake to be built by Caland Ore Company Limited, subsidiary of Inland Steel Co.

The plant will be made an integral part of the company's big open pit mine operation on the Falls Bay arm of the lake six miles north of Atikonan, Ont., Canada.

The company estimated that the plant and auxiliary installations will cost $15 million. It will have the capacity to process two and a half million tons a year of natural ore converting it into coarse, sized ore and one million tons a year of iron ore pellets, both forms highly desirable for blast furnace operations at the steel mill.

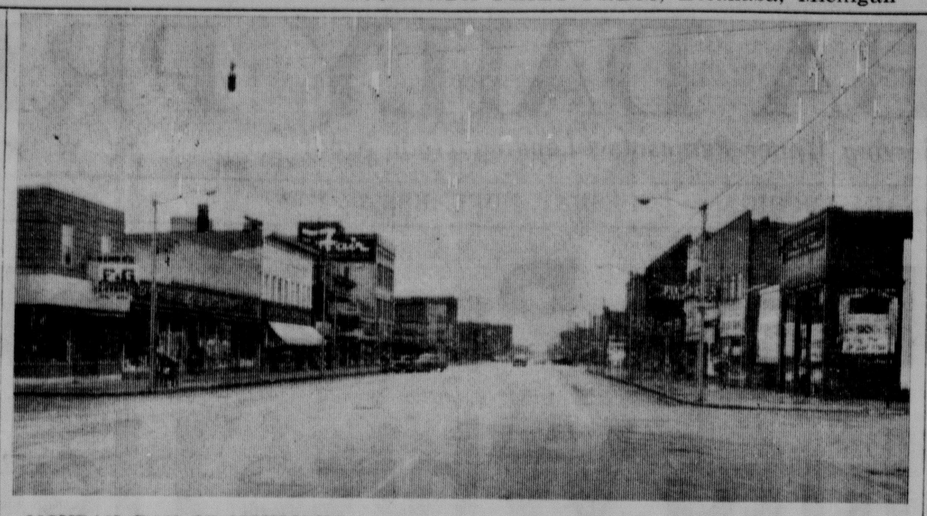

The plant will be the first built in Northwestern Ontario for pelletizing ore. It is understood the first to built anywhere to pelletize ore directly from its natural state without preparatory concentration, a process feasible because of the high iron and low silica content of the Caland ore.

Wild Turkey Flock Grows

By BOB VOGES

ALLEGAN (AP) — Conservation Department field men will be keeping a special eye on Michigan's expanding wild turkey flock with the approach of Thanksgiving.

A lot of hunters are in the woods after deer. It is hoped none will yield to the temptation to bag a wild turkey as a bonus.

"Actually, we don't think there is much poaching of turkeys," said Vic Janson, southern Michigan game bird specialist. "Those few hunters caught illegally shooting a wild turkey have been getting some pretty stiff fines."

The fine is up to $100 and a jail term is possible for taking a turkey.

Janson said he believed the turkeys eventually will become legal targets. The Conservation Department is thinking of allowing a short fall season, probably only for gobblers.

Only a few hunters would be allowed to take the birds with perhaps about a 30 per cent harvest of the turkey flock permitted. It is estimated Michigan now has some 2,200 wild turkeys roaming the fields and forests.

Those hunters luckey enough to take a turkey would be getting a nice meal. The big gobblers weigh up to 20 pounds and the hens about 12.

The wild turkeys would have an exotic taste, differing from the commercial farm-raised breed. Their diet has a wide vareity and includes nuts, berries, buds, roots, grasses and insects. In the winter, they often range along the streams and will eat almost anything that swims.

Wild turkeys first were reintroduced in Michigan in 1954, in the Allegan State Forest area. The birds were imported from Pennsylvania, where they were successfully planted earlier.

The Allegan Forest turkey flock flourished. This encouraged the department to plant the birds in other areas of the Lower Peninsula. It is thought the winters are too severe for the birds to catch on in the Upper Peninsula.

Good flocks also are established in Ogemaw, Oscoda, Montmorency, Alcona, Lake, Newaygo, Mason, Wexford and Manistee counties. There also are a scattering of birds in Benzie, Gladwin, Arenac, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska and Clare counties.

Berliners Weep, Dedicate Square To J.F. Kennedy

BERLIN (AP) — A tearful crowd of 250,000 West Berliners gathered in "John F. Kennedy Square" Monday night for a final farewell to the man who won their affection only five months ago with the words "I am a Berliner."

They cried unashamedly as the sound of taps rolled across the square from two bugles—one answering the other — in memory of the American President they regarded as friend and brother.

Above the platform from which he had spoken amid wild jubilation in June there was now only his portrait, flanked by two palms that waved gently in the cold night wind.

Never before has divided Berlin seen such an outpouring of grief as in the five days since the death of Kennedy. The vast crowd assembled Monday night at the call of Mayor Willy Brandt, who was in Washington for the President's funeral.

Deputy Mayor Heinrich Albertz eulogized Kennedy as a "brother of the Berliners." He concluded the tribute by renaming the square in front of City Hall for the President. Police slowly undraped new street signs bearing his name.

As taps resounded from the bugles of two U.S. soldiers, lights in the square went out. The flicker of thousands of candles in windows of surrounding houses remained.

Brandt's wife covered her face and sobbed, while Maj. Gen. James H. Polk, the U.S. commandant in Berlin, looked drawn and tense. The British and French commandants also were deeply moved.

For one minute, West Berlin's Freedom Bell — a gift of the American people — tolled. Its clear ring carried across the wall into Communist East Berlin.

Infant Daughter Of Emory Iliffs' Taken By Death

Social Security Director Talks At Kiwanis Club

Three certain hazards over which we have no control point up the need for social security, Escanaba Kiwanians were told Monday in a talk by Arnold T. Williams, district director of the Social Security program at Escanaba. The hazards are death, old age, and health.

Williams, who has been with the Social Security administration since 1950, pointed out that the program of economic security has been in operation for over 27 years and has become a mature system, affording protection to 9 out of 10 persons. Through the years, the program has been strengthened by changes, and benefits have been boosted. Retirement now provides an individual maximum of $120 per month, and families may get as much as $254.

One of the major duties of his office, Williams said, is to keep the public informed about their rights under Social Security.

The speaker Monday was introduced by Rene Labre.

Bids On Jail To Be Opened

The Building and Grounds Committee of the Delta County Board of Supervisors will meet at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the Circuit Court room of the County Building for the opening of bids on the new county jail.

County electors approved a proposal of 2 mills for one year during a special election held Sept. 30 as the county's share of project costs. The margin of approval was 4-1.

Total cost of the project is estimated at $354,000. The Federal Government under the Accelerated Public Works Act has approved a grant of $177,000 towards the cost of the project. The remaining monies will be furnished by the county.

Delta County's new jail will be constructed adjacent and north of the present County Building. If the bids are acceptable present plans are to have all footings installed for the new facility by the early part of January.

Members of the Committee include: Lawrence J. Jacobs, chairman, Phil Miron, Glenn Moreau, George Young and Frank Stupak.

Schools Close For Holiday

Escanaba Area Schools and city parochial grade schools will close for the Thanksgiving Holiday on Wednesday after the regular school day and re-open on Monday.

Most area public schools are having some observance of the holiday, however no formal program has been planned.

Holy Name High School will close at 11:30 a. m. Wednesday and resume classes Monday morning. Holy Name activities over the holiday include a dance Thanksgiving evening in the multipurpose room and the dramatics club play over the weekend.

Two Fined $64 On Game Charge

Two hunters were assessed fines and costs totaling $64.60 after they pleaded guilty to Conservation Game Law charges, when arraigned before Justice Ross P. Davis Monday.

Michael R. Richards, 18, of Rte. 1, Gladstone, was fined $25 plus court costs of $7.30 for transporting a rifle in a car. He was arrested by Conservation Officer James Walker in Bay de Noc Township on Sunday.

Norman Wecker, 52, of Grand Rapids, was also fined $25 plus costs of $7.30, but on a charge of transporting an uncased, loaded gun in an automobile. He was arrested by Conservation Officer Charles Bowen of Ensign in Ensign Township Sunday evening.

Services Held On Steps Of State Capitol

By The Associated Press

"Let his death be not in vain," Michigan's Lieutenant governor urged 3,000 of the millions of state residents who paused Monday and mourned the loss of the late President Kennedy.

A lull overcame the normal bustle of the state as factories, offices and businesses closed. The working folk, the housewives and children paid tribute to Mr. Kennedy, many flocking to churches and synagogues.

Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski urged a crowd at services on the steps of the State Capitol in Lansing to "let his death charge every one of us to take up the burden of his unfinished tasks: to rid our hearts and world of the ignorance, hate and violence; to pursue with mutual responsibility his goals of equality, brotherhood and peace."

Six 105 millimeter howitzers boomed a final salute Monday afternoon in Lansing. The guns fired 50 shots, each representing a state in the union, at five-second intervals.

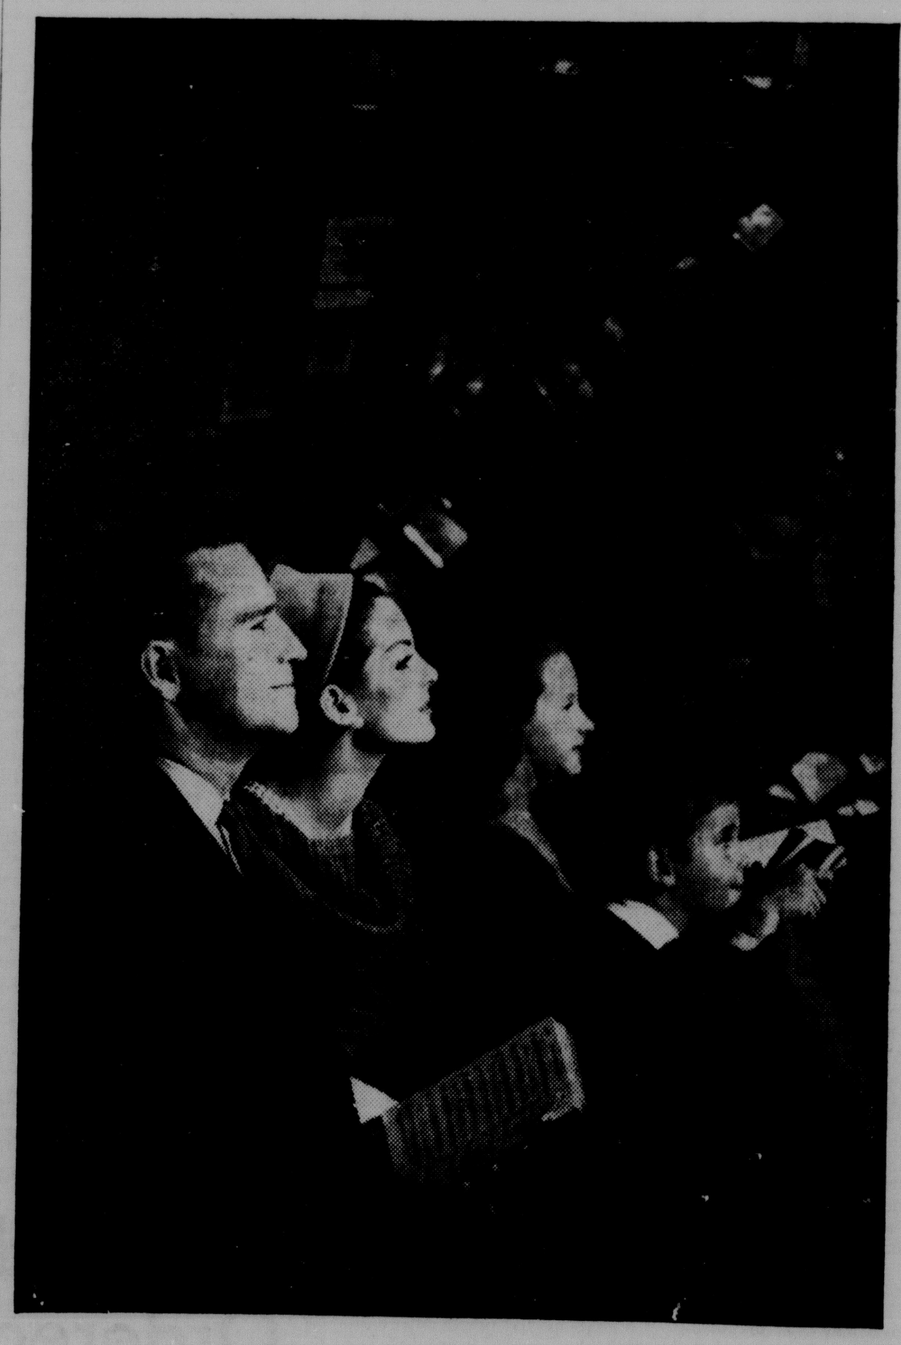

Inside the State Capitol Rotunda, a color portrait of Kennedy was draped in black before a basket of white flowers with an honor guard beside it.

Some 6,000 persons gathered in Detroit for ceremonies at the site of the old city hall.

Services Held On Steps Of State Capitol

By The Associated Press

"Let his death be not in vain," Michigan's Lieutenant governor urged 3,000 of the millions of state residents who paused Monday and mourned the loss of the late President Kennedy.

A lull overcame the normal bustle of the state as factories, offices and businesses closed. The working folk, the housewives and children paid tribute to Mr. Kennedy, many flocking to churches and synagogues.

Lt. Gov. T. John Lesinski urged a crowd at services on the steps of the State Capitol in Lansing to "let his death charge every one of us to take up the burden of his unfinished tasks: to rid our hearts and world of the ignorance, hate and violence; to pursue with mutual responsibility his goals of equality, brotherhood and peace."

Six 105 millimeter howitzers boomed a final salute Monday afternoon in Lansing. The guns fired 50 shots, each representing a state in the union, at five-second intervals.

Inside the State Capitol Rotunda, a color portrait of Kennedy was draped in black before a basket of white flowers with an honor guard beside it.

Some 6,000 persons gathered in Detroit for ceremonies at the site of the old city hall.

Friends Gather In Tribute To Charles Hammar

Three hundred persons gathered to pay tribute to Charles Hammar, good friend to the Escanaba area's crippled and handicapped, while scores more sent messages and gifts, at last night's testimonial program in the Escanaba Area High School commons.

The occasion was a happy one in recognition of Hammar's many good services to children, youth and adults over a period of many years. He has aided others in a variety of ways, from obtaining treatment for crippled youngsters to loans for college students and supplying hospital equipment to the sick.

Mr. and Mrs. Hammar were guests of honor at the dinner and were presented with gifts and received a standing ovation.

Has Many Friends

"There was lots of help from many people," said Hammar. He named John A. Lemmer, James Degnan, the Rotary Club, Charles Gunderson, Swan Johnson and others as assistants in work for the handicapped of the community. The Odd Fellows, the Shrine Club, Knights Templar and many others are contributors to the service that Hammar helped supervise.

"I've enjoyed doing this work as long as I can remember," Hammar commented. "There has been lots of help from many other people — and when you've got friends, see what you can do?"

That Charley Hammar has many friends was attested by the enthusiasm at the testimonial program, despite the gravity of the day as one of mourning for the late President Kennedy.

Dr. Vernon K. Johnson, toastmaster, noted the presence of so many of Hammar's friends and remarked that "for every depraved creature there are thousands who strive to do good for their fellow men," and that this community "can take pride in saying 'well dont' to Charley Hammar."

Songs And Tribute

The invocation was by the Rev. J. Bruce Brown of First Methodist Church, of which the Hammars are members.

Mrs. M. H. Garrard directed group singing and a program of songs by Orpheus Chorus. The group songs were specially written by Mrs. Garrard and included "Toast to Charley" and Charley's Car."

Clarence Moore, physical therapist who knows personally of the many good deeds of Hammar in obtaining treatment for the crippled and handicapped, praised Hammar as "a man who stands tall among men." Moore was general chairman of the arrangements committee.

Mayor Harold Vanlerberghe, reading a proclamation designating Nov. 25 as Charley Hammar Day, called upon the community to take part "in the reception at which Mr. Hammar and his wife will be recognized for the unselfish service they have given to the community during the course of many years, or by other means revealing that Escanaba does appreciate the application of the Golden Rule."

Honorary membership in the Rotary Club, which sponsors a program of assistance of crippled children, was conferred upon Hammar by Robert Mosenfelder, president of the Rotary Club. Hammar's life and deeds exemplify Rotary's objective of service to others, Mosenfelder said.

The Good Works

John A. Lemmer, good friend to the crippled and handicapped youngsters of the area, read "A Toast to Charley Hammar," a poem he composed for the occasion. The verses gave tribute to Hammar for his work and its touches of humor won smiles and laughter from the audience.

Guy Knutson praised Hammar for "practicing the good work of your faith" and expressed the community's gratitude and appreciation for his services. Arne Maki, treasurer of the Shrine Club, also paid tribute and presented a gift to Hammar from the Shrine members.

Al Stamm, Marquette, Ahmed Temple potentate, recognized Hammar for his "dedication to the principles of Shrinedom and his work for the good of his fellow men." He described the operation of the 17 Shrine Hospitals for crippled children where children receive free treatment without regard to race or creed. "We are proud of Charley Hammar. If there were more like him, what a pleasant world this would be," he said.

Miss Eva Flemstrom presented testimonials to the Hammars and read telegrams from persons who were unable to be present. Dr. Johnson presented the Hammars with a gift from their friends of the area.

The dinner was served by the ladies of the Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

CHARLES HAMMAR, replying to tributes for his service to crippled and handicapped of the community, said "See what can be done when you have lots of friends?" Clarence Moore, (seated) was general chairman of the committee arranging the testimonial program at which Mr. and Mrs. Hammar were guests of honor. (Daily Press Photo)

Holiday Slows Car Production

DETROIT (AP) — The U. S. auto industry which has turned out over eight million cars and trucks since Jan. 1 slowed its production rate this week because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

Over 188,000 cars were built last week, but the one-day holiday interruption was expected to drop this week's figure to nearer the 150,000 mark.

The daily production rate of 37,500 cars which has been maintained thus far in November marked an increase of 7.7 per cent over the 34,800 units averaged in October, when an all-time high in monthly output was attained.

One automotive source — Ward's Automotive Reports — said that with three fewer regular work days this month, November volume will total about 750,000 units—compared with the record 798,719 set last month. It is expected to top the previous high for any November, the 749,601 set in 1955.

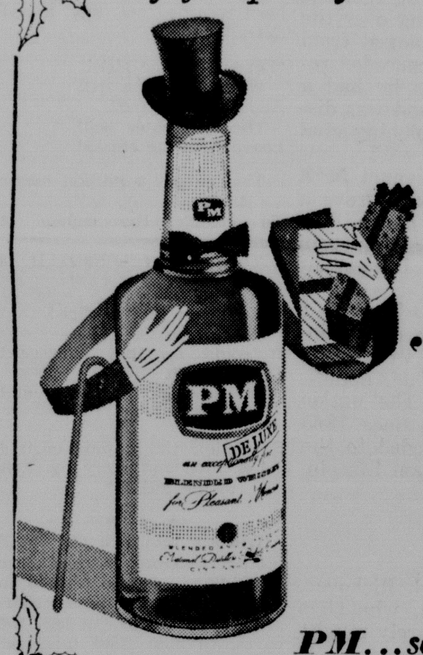

One of the strongest points in auto production last week was the 100,000-plus unit production at General Motors. The unofficial estimate of 102,596 cars turned out by GM marked the first time that any auto maker ever scheduled over 100,000 cars for a week.

GM and Ford had a total of 13 plants on overtime operations last Saturday, while Chrysler had three and American Motors had one on similar overtime. Studebaker, which was closed last week, was expected to work three days this week.

Chrysler Corp. continued its strong showing as it accounted for 16.3 per cent of the current model run, compared with the 13 per cent of the market it was getting a year ago.

One automotive source — Ward's Automotive Reports — said that with three fewer regular work days this month, November volume will total about 750,000 units—compared with the record 798,719 set last month. It is expected to top the previous high for any November, the 749,601 set in 1955.

One of the strongest points in auto production last week was the 100,000-plus unit production at General Motors. The unofficial estimate of 102,596 cars turned out by GM marked the first time that any auto maker ever scheduled over 100,000 cars for a week.

GM and Ford had a total of 13 plants on overtime operations last Saturday, while Chrysler had three and American Motors had one on similar overtime. Studebaker, which was closed last week, was expected to work three days this week.

Chrysler Corp. continued its strong showing as it accounted for 16.3 per cent of the current model run, compared with the 13 per cent of the market it was getting a year ago.

More people get more news from newspapers than from all other sources combined.

Our New President

The Russian government newspaper Pravda (Truth) said of America's new president in the first reaction to the death of President Kennedy that the vice president who succeeded him was an obscure politician. That's a rather wild untruth, even for the Russians.

Lyndon Baines Johnson, who became our 36th President with the assassination of John Fitzgerald Kennedy, is one of the most astute politicians in American life, a man whose place was firm in American political history if he had never held office higher than the U. S. Senate. He was one of the most successful Senate majority leaders in history.

All American adults, surely, will recall the stirring days of the 1960 Democratic national convention when Johnson was a nominee for the Presidency. He had more stature than John Kennedy on the basis of their political records, but Mr. Kennedy was the party choice. The next day Johnson was called by the nominee and asked to accept the nomination for vice president and he accepted.

It was a step-down for Johnson, a proud man who wielded great power as the majority leader of the Senate; much more than he would as the vice president and presiding officer of the Senate. The vice presidency is a way to political obscurity except in the case of the President's death. Lyndon Johnson was the 8th vice president to be elevated to the White House through the death of a chief executive.

The American people and the world are fortunate that so able a man takes up the reins of government leadership in the crisis created by the assassination of President Kennedy. President Johnson's genius is in organization of political action and there is no greater theater for such talents than in the office in which he now finds himself.

His friend Senator Russell (D-Georgia) has said that Mr. Johnson hasn't the best mind in the Senate and isn't its best orator or parliamentarian, but that he is the best combination of these qualities. He will have the full backing of the American people in office and they will be mindful of his huge burden and thankful for his capacities.

As the horror of the assassination dims with time, the normal course of political action will be restored and with it will come realization that looming over the White House today is a sky very much changed from that of President Kennedy's days. He was conceded reelection by most experienced politicians, as he had a huge popularity with the American people and was disliked only for the best reasons, like championing civil rights and aid to backward peoples.

President Johnson, at his very best, cannot be a John F. Kennedy, and even though he should prove a greater president, he still is a different one and the break in the administration will cause a sea change in national politics in the new year, which brings the presidential campaign.

Mr. Johnson is a Southern Democrat. That is a fact of enormous political significance. The uncertainties about American policy which swept the world with the death of President Kennedy will have their domestic echo in our regional power structure. The nation has not had a President from the South since 1865 when Andrew Johnson, a Republican succeeded to the presidency upon the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

Ridiculing Education

In the view of Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, regular critic of the U. S. school system, what has been done up to now to improve schooling barely roughs up the surface.

He believes that the stress too often, and in too many places, still is on teaching young Americans "how to adjust to life," rather than how to conquer the fields of knowledge.

As proof that we still are not doing the job we should, Rickover says we have on our hands a "mass of young people so deficient in mental and manual skills that no advanced society could provide them all with jobs, except on a charity basis."

By contrast, he notes, Europe has so many well-trained people filling skilled jobs that there is actually a shortage of unskilled labor and it has to be imported.

★ ★ ★

Rickover feels at least part of the blame must fall on what he calls the "incredible stretchout in American education." European young folk, he says, get at least a third more schooling in a year than ours do.

"Our children sit in class more years," he adds, "because they learn less each year."

To some extent these are matters in dispute, and Rickover has his severe challengers. But few question that, overall, America's is a relatively "soft" educational system.

★ ★ ★

Worse, perhaps, is the fact that both students and parents have for the most part a "soft" attitude toward schooling. There is not enough deep concern for knowing, for real mastery of knowledge.

It may be somewhat symptomatic that acid ridicule of a great American university can bring thunderous cheers at a political rally. Smirking at those who quest after knowledge has always been, in some measure or other, a lively American sport.

The question is whether we can afford the game any more. In 1963 no prizes are going to those whose only specialties are keeping themselves ignorant and scorning those who are not. A nation thus populated will be neither secure nor well off.

Chivalry Illegal

Not long ago a man won a small suit for damages in New York City. But the case has interest far beyond the immediate matter.

The man collected a modest sum for minor injury to his person and damage to his clothes. This had resulted when he had gone to the rescue of a woman who, police confirmed, was being beaten by her husband.

For a while it was touch and go. When the rescuer filed suit, the other man filed countersuit, charging the rescuer with trespass and assault. Eventually the court ruled for the rescuer.

The sad part of the whole affair is, however, that a careful study indicates that New York state law is not at all encouraging to such rescue efforts. A canvass of experienced lawyers on this point produced a consensus that the best thing for a citizen to do is "not get involved" in such incidents.

Washington Comment

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With the announcement that Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith is considering a try for the Republican presidential nomination, songwriter Gladys Shelley brought out a ditty already written for the occasion.

Titled "Leave It to the Girls," the Shelley number has been recorded on the Spiral Record Label:

"Leave it to the girls!
Where there's a frill
And a powder puff,
There's greater skill.
Leave it to the chicks!

They've got a million magic tricks.
To change the course of history.
Their know - how is a mystery.

But leave it to the girls!
They're heaven-sent—
It could be that our next president
Will wear perfume and pearls

Be diplomatic in pin curls—
For love and glory leave it to the girls!"

The Doctor Says:

Valuable Drug Is Back

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Here's good news for many readers who have asked for the name of the drug that dissolves bladder stones.

The drug, hemiacidrin (Renacidin), was temporarily withdrawn from the market because it was being used to dissolve stones in the kidneys, a purpose for which it is unsuitable. Such use is extremely dangerous. It has been proved, however, that this valuable drug is harmless when used to dissolve stones in the bladder. With this information clearly printed on the package this drug is once again available to your doctor.

Q—My doctor says I have epicondylitis of my right elbow. He has been giving me medicine for it for five months, but I don't see any improvement. What are my chances for a cure?

A—Epicondylitis is an inflammation of the bone at the elbow joint caused usually by sudden jerky movements made while playing tennis, badminton or squash. Most victims complain of pain when making such movements as turning a doorknob. They also have a weak grip on the affected side. No treatment will succeed unless the type of movement that caused the trouble is stopped. It is well to carry the arm in a sling until the acute stage is over.

Early in the course, icebags help. But, if the condition has become chronic, heat in the form of an electric pad or diathermy is best.

Injections of procaine will relieve the pain, but you must remember that pain has a protective function and, if the pain is killed with procaine, movements of the type that may make the condition worse may go unnoticed and further damage may be done. Healing is slow and may require several months.

Q—My doctor says I have plastic anemia. What does that mean? What is the cause? Can I be cured?

A—In any form of anemia there is an impoverishment of the blood. The red blood cells that carry oxygen to the tissues are reduced in number and in oxygen-carrying capacity. In plastic anemia, the bone marrow fails in the making of new red blood cells, its primary function. The underlying cause for this may be leukemia, tumors involving the marrow, diseases of the spleen and pernicious anemia. None of these conditions are to be taken lightly and the treatment depends on careful studies to determine the cause in your particular case.

Church Adopts Modern Media

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council Monday gave final approval to a decree calling on the Roman Catholic Church to use modern communication media to help spread the message of the Church.

The council also suggested the establishment in Rome of an international Catholic information center.

The prelates adopted by a 1,598-503 vote a schema (topic) on mass communications —the press, radio, television and the arts.

The schema, approved in sections earlier this session, requires only the promulgation of Pope Paul VI to become a formal decree in the Roman Catholic Church.

It was the second schema to be completed by the council. The other brings wide reforms to the Catholic liturgy. Both are expected to be promulgated by Pope Paul VI before the council recesses Dec. 4.

Council press spokesmen have paraphrased the press document as saying:

". . .The free flow of information must be protected by civil authorities with all means available. The correct use of this right (of free information) demands that the information and correct."

The appeal for freedom of information is made in general terms and could apply to censorship restrictions in both Communist countries and non-Communist countries such as Spain and Portugal.

Another part of the schema calls on Roman Catholics to set up national press and communications centers in every country to promote better use of communications to spread the Church's message.

Johnson Proud, Dynamic Man

EDITOR'S NOTE—To Lyndon Baines Johnson, the presidency of the United States came suddenly and shockingly on a sunny afternoon last week. But for most of his life he had been preparing for leadership. In the first of three articles spotlighting the new President, Relman Morin, Associated Press' Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter, relates how a telephone call on July 24, 1960, summoned the Texas senator to become the Democratic candidate for vice president — a call that led him to the nation's highest office.

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 8 o'clock on the morning of July 14, 1960, a ringing telephone summoned Lyndon Baines Johnson to his moment of destiny.

The call came from John F. Kennedy. A day earlier, Kennedy had defeated Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president. Now he said he wanted to talk with Johnson, but he didn't say why.

Two hours later, in Suite 7334, the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Kennedy asked Johnson to take second place on the ticket.

The vice presidency? Second place?

Johnson is a proud, dynamic, driving man.

Moreover, as Senate majority leader—and an incredibly successful one—he commanded enormous power, far greater than that invested in the office of vice president.

"Once there were two brothers," said Thomas R. Marshall, vice president to Woodrow Wilson. "One ran away to sea, the other was elected vice president, and nothing was ever heard of either of them again."

But Johnson arouses strong loyalties in others, and he gives his in full measure.

Gives Strong Loyalty

His own chances for the presidency were gone. If Kennedy won, the opportunity probably would not return again until 1968, when he would be 60. He knew the degree of his importance, for eight years, would be determined by Kennedy. As a politician, he also knew that Kennedy needed help in carrying the South, and as a Southerner, that he could provide the political muscle.

And so he accepted second place. He told Kennedy that, henceforth, "LBJ" would signify "Let's Back Jack."

At 2:39 p.m. last Friday—three years, four months, and eight days later—Lyndon Baines Johnson was sworn in as the 36th President of the United States.

He is the eighth vice president to be elevated to the White House through the death of a chief executive.

What manner of man is he?

Let him profile himself. He once said:

"I am a free man, an American, a U.S. senator and a Democrat in that order. I am also a liberal, a conservative, a Texan, a taxpayer, a rancher, a businessman, a parent, a voter, and not as young as I used to be, nor as old as I expect to be —and I am all those things in no fixed order."

Busy As Senator

He could have added that he is the descendant of Baptist preachers and educators, and that he has been a schoolteacher, a law student, a congressional secretary, a farm hand, a road worker, a janitor, a truck driver, a dishwasher, and a Navy lieutenant commander who received the Silver Star from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He has two dominant qualities —energy and focus.

As a senator, Johnson worked 14 and 16 hours a day. His day started at 6:30 a.m. with coffee, the New York and Washington newspapers, and the Congressional Record.

He would go to his office at 8, sometimes dictating to a secretary in the car.

In a day, it was not uncommon for him to receive 70 callers, 650 letters, 500 telephone calls. How does anyone know? His staff maintained a chart, a kind of box score, that showed the numbing statistics.

"Come on, let's function — let's function," he would say, when things seemed to be bogging down.

Heart Attack In 1955

His wife, born Claudia Alta Taylor, and nicknamed "Lady Bird" by her Negro nurse, once said of him:

"At night he comes home dog-tired. We seldom go out. Lyndon says he can't put on a black or white tie every night and still do his job."

On July 2, 1955, a heart attack felled Johnson.

He stands 6-3 and he weighed 200 pounds at the time.

Convalescing, he was ordered by his doctors to cut his weight, his habit of chain-smoking cigarettes, and his working hours.

He lost 25 pounds and stopped smoking. But he was soon back at the same working pace.

He is so focused, so highly concentrated, that when he has something on his mind he seems not to be able to leave it, even temporarily.

An incident—

This reporter went to his office one day for a prearranged interview. Johnson had just won an important objective on the Senate floor. He could not sit still. He fidgeted and twisted behind his desk.

Good Listener

He seemed to listen to the first question but said, "Excuse me a second." Then he placed a telephone call. When he hung up, he asked that the question be repeated. It didn't register. He already was phoning another man. Several telephone calls later, interspersed with instructions to several staff members, we got through the first question. Then I gave up, hoping for a better day.

Thus—prior to the heart attack at least—he was completely absorbed in his work. He said he had been too busy to read books, listen to music. If he went to a ball game it was "for the company."

Johnson's close friend, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., once said of him:

"Lyndon Johnson hasn't got the best mind in the Senate. He isn't the best orator. He isn't the best parliamentarian. But he is the best combination of all those qualities."

In his Senate office, Johnson had a large, framed legend which said, "You Ain't Learnin' Nothin' When You're Talkin'."

He is a good listener and he comes now to the greatest learning job in the world.

Ask The Dentist

Q. I have been reading of teeth being replaced when knocked out. What I would like to know is, can a tooth that has been broken off be put together again even though some time has passed since the tooth was broken, or, if it were recently broken? Mrs. B.

A. It is true that when a tooth is knocked out it can be replaced in the socket where it was. The chances of success are greatest when the "replantation" is done soon after the accident, within a matter if three or four hours, but sometimes the treatment is successful even after 10 or 12 hours.

There is more to replanting a tooth than just washing off the root and pushing it back into the socket, and even when the tooth becomes firm again in its place, Nature sometimes pushes it out again, or dissolves the root of the tooth, so it becomes loose or falls out.

Before a dentist replants a tooth, he usually removes the pulp or nerve and fills the "root canal" with medicated cement. He must do this by clean, sterile methods, then he must wire the tooth into positiin or build some sort of a support for it from plastic or a similar material. The patient will have to be very careful of such a tooth for several weeks and the dentist will check the area by x-rays.

Frequently such a tooth becomes discolored or dark, and it is necessary to have it bleached for appearance's sake.

In regard to a tooth which has been broken off, it is very unlikely it can be put together again, although I do know of a few cases where the broken parts are cemented together by using a small pin or screw.

Unlike a broken arm or leg, a tooth does not have the ability to form new bone or tooth scructure and knit itself together again. Sometimes the broken root of a tooth heals over, but never does the crown (the part we can see.)

There are several ways of repairing a front tooth which is just broken and your dentist should be able to show you models and explain the procedures to you.

President Johnson, at his very best, cannot be a John F. Kennedy, and even though he should prove a greater president, he still is a different one and the break in the administration will cause a sea change in national politics in the new year, which brings the presidential campaign.

Mr. Johnson is a Southern Democrat. That is a fact of enormous political significance. The uncertainties about American policy which swept the world with the death of President Kennedy will have their domestic echo in our regional power structure. The nation has not had a President from the South since 1865 when Andrew Johnson, a Republican succeeded to the presidency upon the assassination of Abraham Lincoln.

Ridiculing Education

In the view of Vice Admiral Hyman G. Rickover, regular critic of the U. S. school system, what has been done up to now to improve schooling barely roughs up the surface.

He believes that the stress too often, and in too many places, still is on teaching young Americans "how to adjust to life," rather than how to conquer the fields of knowledge.

As proof that we still are not doing the job we should, Rickover says we have on our hands a "mass of young people so deficient in mental and manual skills that no advanced society could provide them all with jobs, except on a charity basis."

By contrast, he notes, Europe has so many well-trained people filling skilled jobs that there is actually a shortage of unskilled labor and it has to be imported.

★ ★ ★

Rickover feels at least part of the blame must fall on what he calls the "incredible stretchout in American education." European young folk, he says, get at least a third more schooling in a year than ours do.

"Our children sit in class more years," he adds, "because they learn less each year."

To some extent these are matters in dispute, and Rickover has his severe challengers. But few question that, overall, America's is a relatively "soft" educational system.

★ ★ ★

Worse, perhaps, is the fact that both students and parents have for the most part a "soft" attitude toward schooling. There is not enough deep concern for knowing, for real mastery of knowledge.

It may be somewhat symptomatic that acid ridicule of a great American university can bring thunderous cheers at a political rally. Smirking at those who quest after knowledge has always been, in some measure or other, a lively American sport.

The question is whether we can afford the game any more. In 1963 no prizes are going to those whose only specialties are keeping themselves ignorant and scorning those who are not. A nation thus populated will be neither secure nor well off.

Chivalry Illegal

Not long ago a man won a small suit for damages in New York City. But the case has interest far beyond the immediate matter.

The man collected a modest sum for minor injury to his person and damage to his clothes. This had resulted when he had gone to the rescue of a woman who, police confirmed, was being beaten by her husband.

For a while it was touch and go. When the rescuer filed suit, the other man filed countersuit, charging the rescuer with trespass and assault. Eventually the court ruled for the rescuer.

The sad part of the whole affair is, however, that a careful study indicates that New York state law is not at all encouraging to such rescue efforts. A canvass of experienced lawyers on this point produced a consensus that the best thing for a citizen to do is "not get involved" in such incidents.

Washington Comment

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — With the announcement that Maine Sen. Margaret Chase Smith is considering a try for the Republican presidential nomination, songwriter Gladys Shelley brought out a ditty already written for the occasion.

Titled "Leave It to the Girls," the Shelley number has been recorded on the Spiral Record Label:

"Leave it to the girls!
Where there's a frill
And a powder puff,
There's greater skill.
Leave it to the chicks!

They've got a million magic tricks.
To change the course of history.
Their know - how is a mystery.

But leave it to the girls!
They're heaven-sent—
It could be that our next president
Will wear perfume and pearls

Be diplomatic in pin curls—
For love and glory leave it to the girls!"

The Doctor Says:

Valuable Drug Is Back

By Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D.

Here's good news for many readers who have asked for the name of the drug that dissolves bladder stones.

The drug, hemiacidrin (Renacidin), was temporarily withdrawn from the market because it was being used to dissolve stones in the kidneys, a purpose for which it is unsuitable. Such use is extremely dangerous. It has been proved, however, that this valuable drug is harmless when used to dissolve stones in the bladder. With this information clearly printed on the package this drug is once again available to your doctor.

Q—My doctor says I have epicondylitis of my right elbow. He has been giving me medicine for it for five months, but I don't see any improvement. What are my chances for a cure?

A—Epicondylitis is an inflammation of the bone at the elbow joint caused usually by sudden jerky movements made while playing tennis, badminton or squash. Most victims complain of pain when making such movements as turning a doorknob. They also have a weak grip on the affected side. No treatment will succeed unless the type of movement that caused the trouble is stopped. It is well to carry the arm in a sling until the acute stage is over.

Early in the course, icebags help. But, if the condition has become chronic, heat in the form of an electric pad or diathermy is best.

Injections of procaine will relieve the pain, but you must remember that pain has a protective function and, if the pain is killed with procaine, movements of the type that may make the condition worse may go unnoticed and further damage may be done. Healing is slow and may require several months.

Q—My doctor says I have plastic anemia. What does that mean? What is the cause? Can I be cured?

A—In any form of anemia there is an impoverishment of the blood. The red blood cells that carry oxygen to the tissues are reduced in number and in oxygen-carrying capacity. In plastic anemia, the bone marrow fails in the making of new red blood cells, its primary function. The underlying cause for this may be leukemia, tumors involving the marrow, diseases of the spleen and pernicious anemia. None of these conditions are to be taken lightly and the treatment depends on careful studies to determine the cause in your particular case.

Church Adopts Modern Media

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican Ecumenical Council Monday gave final approval to a decree calling on the Roman Catholic Church to use modern communication media to help spread the message of the Church.

The council also suggested the establishment in Rome of an international Catholic information center.

The prelates adopted by a 1,598-503 vote a schema (topic) on mass communications —the press, radio, television and the arts.

The schema, approved in sections earlier this session, requires only the promulgation of Pope Paul VI to become a formal decree in the Roman Catholic Church.

It was the second schema to be completed by the council. The other brings wide reforms to the Catholic liturgy. Both are expected to be promulgated by Pope Paul VI before the council recesses Dec. 4.

Council press spokesmen have paraphrased the press document as saying:

". . .The free flow of information must be protected by civil authorities with all means available. The correct use of this right (of free information) demands that the information and correct."

The appeal for freedom of information is made in general terms and could apply to censorship restrictions in both Communist countries and non-Communist countries such as Spain and Portugal.

Another part of the schema calls on Roman Catholics to set up national press and communications centers in every country to promote better use of communications to spread the Church's message.

Johnson Proud, Dynamic Man

EDITOR'S NOTE—To Lyndon Baines Johnson, the presidency of the United States came suddenly and shockingly on a sunny afternoon last week. But for most of his life he had been preparing for leadership. In the first of three articles spotlighting the new President, Relman Morin, Associated Press' Pulitzer Prize-winning reporter, relates how a telephone call on July 24, 1960, summoned the Texas senator to become the Democratic candidate for vice president — a call that led him to the nation's highest office.

By RELMAN MORIN

WASHINGTON (AP) — At 8 o'clock on the morning of July 14, 1960, a ringing telephone summoned Lyndon Baines Johnson to his moment of destiny.

The call came from John F. Kennedy. A day earlier, Kennedy had defeated Johnson for the Democratic nomination for president. Now he said he wanted to talk with Johnson, but he didn't say why.

Two hours later, in Suite 7334, the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles, Kennedy asked Johnson to take second place on the ticket.

The vice presidency? Second place?

Johnson is a proud, dynamic, driving man.

Moreover, as Senate majority leader—and an incredibly successful one—he commanded enormous power, far greater than that invested in the office of vice president.

"Once there were two brothers," said Thomas R. Marshall, vice president to Woodrow Wilson. "One ran away to sea, the other was elected vice president, and nothing was ever heard of either of them again."

But Johnson arouses strong loyalties in others, and he gives his in full measure.

Gives Strong Loyalty

His own chances for the presidency were gone. If Kennedy won, the opportunity probably would not return again until 1968, when he would be 60. He knew the degree of his importance, for eight years, would be determined by Kennedy. As a politician, he also knew that Kennedy needed help in carrying the South, and as a Southerner, that he could provide the political muscle.

And so he accepted second place. He told Kennedy that, henceforth, "LBJ" would signify "Let's Back Jack."

At 2:39 p.m. last Friday—three years, four months, and eight days later—Lyndon Baines Johnson was sworn in as the 36th President of the United States.

He is the eighth vice president to be elevated to the White House through the death of a chief executive.

What manner of man is he?

Let him profile himself. He once said:

"I am a free man, an American, a U.S. senator and a Democrat in that order. I am also a liberal, a conservative, a Texan, a taxpayer, a rancher, a businessman, a parent, a voter, and not as young as I used to be, nor as old as I expect to be —and I am all those things in no fixed order."

Busy As Senator

He could have added that he is the descendant of Baptist preachers and educators, and that he has been a schoolteacher, a law student, a congressional secretary, a farm hand, a road worker, a janitor, a truck driver, a dishwasher, and a Navy lieutenant commander who received the Silver Star from Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

He has two dominant qualities —energy and focus.

As a senator, Johnson worked 14 and 16 hours a day. His day started at 6:30 a.m. with coffee, the New York and Washington newspapers, and the Congressional Record.

He would go to his office at 8, sometimes dictating to a secretary in the car.

In a day, it was not uncommon for him to receive 70 callers, 650 letters, 500 telephone calls. How does anyone know? His staff maintained a chart, a kind of box score, that showed the numbing statistics.

"Come on, let's function — let's function," he would say, when things seemed to be bogging down.

Heart Attack In 1955

His wife, born Claudia Alta Taylor, and nicknamed "Lady Bird" by her Negro nurse, once said of him:

"At night he comes home dog-tired. We seldom go out. Lyndon says he can't put on a black or white tie every night and still do his job."

On July 2, 1955, a heart attack felled Johnson.

He stands 6-3 and he weighed 200 pounds at the time.

Convalescing, he was ordered by his doctors to cut his weight, his habit of chain-smoking cigarettes, and his working hours.

He lost 25 pounds and stopped smoking. But he was soon back at the same working pace.

He is so focused, so highly concentrated, that when he has something on his mind he seems not to be able to leave it, even temporarily.

An incident—

This reporter went to his office one day for a prearranged interview. Johnson had just won an important objective on the Senate floor. He could not sit still. He fidgeted and twisted behind his desk.

Good Listener

He seemed to listen to the first question but said, "Excuse me a second." Then he placed a telephone call. When he hung up, he asked that the question be repeated. It didn't register. He already was phoning another man. Several telephone calls later, interspersed with instructions to several staff members, we got through the first question. Then I gave up, hoping for a better day.

Thus—prior to the heart attack at least—he was completely absorbed in his work. He said he had been too busy to read books, listen to music. If he went to a ball game it was "for the company."

Johnson's close friend, Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., once said of him:

"Lyndon Johnson hasn't got the best mind in the Senate. He isn't the best orator. He isn't the best parliamentarian. But he is the best combination of all those qualities."

In his Senate office, Johnson had a large, framed legend which said, "You Ain't Learnin' Nothin' When You're Talkin'."

He is a good listener and he comes now to the greatest learning job in the world.

Ask The Dentist

Q. I have been reading of teeth being replaced when knocked out. What I would like to know is, can a tooth that has been broken off be put together again even though some time has passed since the tooth was broken, or, if it were recently broken? Mrs. B.

A. It is true that when a tooth is knocked out it can be replaced in the socket where it was. The chances of success are greatest when the "replantation" is done soon after the accident, within a matter if three or four hours, but sometimes the treatment is successful even after 10 or 12 hours.

There is more to replanting a tooth than just washing off the root and pushing it back into the socket, and even when the tooth becomes firm again in its place, Nature sometimes pushes it out again, or dissolves the root of the tooth, so it becomes loose or falls out.

Before a dentist replants a tooth, he usually removes the pulp or nerve and fills the "root canal" with medicated cement. He must do this by clean, sterile methods, then he must wire the tooth into positiin or build some sort of a support for it from plastic or a similar material. The patient will have to be very careful of such a tooth for several weeks and the dentist will check the area by x-rays.

Frequently such a tooth becomes discolored or dark, and it is necessary to have it bleached for appearance's sake.

In regard to a tooth which has been broken off, it is very unlikely it can be put together again, although I do know of a few cases where the broken parts are cemented together by using a small pin or screw.

Unlike a broken arm or leg, a tooth does not have the ability to form new bone or tooth scructure and knit itself together again. Sometimes the broken root of a tooth heals over, but never does the crown (the part we can see.)

There are several ways of repairing a front tooth which is just broken and your dentist should be able to show you models and explain the procedures to you.

Dread Mirrored In Propaganda From Moscow

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Moscow propaganda in the wake of President Kennedy's assassination seems to reflect a feeling of dread.

In the Kremlin's reaction there is detectable a fear that the American public will turn its wrath upon communism, as such, because a man labeled a pro-Castro marxist was accused of killing the President.

Premier Khrushchev and his supporters, beset by enormous economic problems, and a deep split in the world Communist camp may be apprehensive that Soviet foreign policy could collapse before a hardened U.S. attitude.

Veiled Warnings

The propaganda is full of veiled warnings. The government newspaper, Ivestia, which can be considered a voice of Khrushchev himself, said "President Kennedy's death has undoubtedly aggravated the situation in the United States."

"The struggle between sober-minded Americans and the forces of rabid reactionaries who will not miss the chance of using the situation for their own ends, will be very tense," "Izvestia's editorial said Monday.

Khrushchev's policy is pegged to peaceful coexistence, as he calls it. This implies that since war is unthinkable, the two greatest powers must agree on dangerous issues. As practiced, coexistence has involved probing, testing, edging close to danger — as in Cuba and Berlin — and retreating when there is risk of a collision which could trigger war.

Johnson Unknown Quantity

Kennedy confronted Khrushchev with shows of strength in Berlin and in Cuba. But the Kremlin knew Kennedy and respected him as an antagonist. President Johnson still is an unknown quantity to the Russians, and Moscow deeply suspects what it does not know or understand.

Moscow has been cautious lately. Its caution is reflected in a mild response to the humiliation and expulsion of Soviet diplomats from the Congo.

Izvestia expressed fear that the assassination may have deadly parallels with the 1933 Reichstag fire which brought Hitler to power in Germany. There, it pointed out, Communists were blamed.

All this indicates that before long the Kremlin will want to test Johnson and his intentions.

Ruling Given On Rail Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal arbitrators ruled today that 90 per cent of firemen's jobs on diesel yard engines and freight trains should be eliminated. They said this should be done by attrition or with job protection for most of the 40,000 union members affected.

The seven-member arbitration board in the long dispute over railroad work rules was set up under a law enacted by Congress in August which provided that its finding would be binding on both parties.

However, a spokesman for two of the five railroad unions said the arbitration award and the law under which it was made would be attacked in federal court.

Detroit Plumber Tells Of Kicking McKinley Killer

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit plumber who was so infuriated by the assassination of President McKinley in 1901 that he kicked the assailant in the face says he'd have done the same thing at President Kennedy's slaying in Dallas, Tex.

"If I'd been there in Dallas)," said Charles T. Gardner, now 84, "I'd have done it all again. I know I would."

Gardner and his first wife, Gertrude, were standing in line to shake hands with McKinley at Buffalo, N.y., on that day after the turn of the century when McKinley was shot by anarchist Leon Czolgosz.

"There were two people in front of us," Gardner said. "one had what seemed to be a bandaged hand and the other was a big guy. The bandage was hiding a gun and when he (Czolgosz) shot, the big guy knocked him down.

"I got in two good kicks, one right in the face, before police pulled me away."

"Of course," Gardner continued, "the killing of President Kennedy was different. The man—they have convinced me it was (Harvey Lee) Oswald — shot from the window and there was no one around to grab him.

"The shooting of Oswald was very like the shooting of President McKinley. The man just walked up.

"This killing brought the other one all back to me. I was pretty nervous. I really was."

Kennedy Rites Bugler From Grand Rapids

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Grand Rapids bugler, an army veteran of 17 years, sounded taps Monday at the funeral of President John F. Kennedy.

Sgt. Keith Clark also sounded taps two weeks ago when the assassinated president placed a wreath at the tomb of the unknown soldier, also at Arlington Cemetery.

Clark, 36, learned his musical fundamentals from his late father, Harry H. Clark, a World War I band leader. He has been the Army band's official bugler for some time and participated in several ceremonial events with the late president, said his wife, Marjorie.

Clark and his older brother, Bruce, both were bandsmen at East Grand Rapids High School.

Both boys attended brief sessions at the National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich.

A mix-up involving another Keith Clark from Michigan delayed the bugler's appplication to join the army band. Near the end of his first year he played with the Air Force Band for a time and then was invited to audition for the Army band.

Clark, stationed at Ft. Myer, Va., is the father of four daughters — Nancy, 14, Sandra, 11, Karen, 9, and Beth, 4.

Rockefeller And Goldwater Hold Up On Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona say they plan no political speeches for a month in deference to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Rockefeller, who has declared himself a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said Monday he will not push his candidacy during the 30-day period of mourning which he has decreed for New York State.

Goldwater, who leads polls as a potential GOP presidential nominee but has yet to declare himself in the running, told a reporter he has canceled three television appearances and will make no more political speeches this year.

Since the assassination of Kennedy "there is an absence of anything political to talk about," Goldwater said.

Rockefeller said in a statement that during the 30-day mourning period "I shall not participate personally in any public activity in connection with the Republican presidential nomination, nor in any other public activities with the exception of those falling within my official duties as governor of New York State."

Goldwater said that so far as he is concerned, the tragic sequence of events has removed the Kennedy administration as an issue.

"We want to see what President Johnson will do," he said. "We do not know what course he will take, whether he will change some of them.

"We want to give him all of the room he needs to operate and all of the help he needs. It would not be fair for the opposing party to heckle him while he is getting organized in his new job. Let's give him a couple of months to see what he can do."

Chairman William E. Miller postponed a Dec. 11-14 meeting of the National Republican Committee and said "total suspension of partisan political activity is called for" during the period of mourning.

Stock Market Buying Brisk

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading swelled to heavy proportions today when the stock market reopened after being closed for President Kennedy's funeral.

Prices advanced as initial quotations crossed the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape.

Brokers reported a flood of "buy" orders had been received over the weekend and Monday.

This was in sharp contrast to the panicky selling that developed Friday afternoon when word of the Kennedy's assassination was received. Prices plunged and exchanges were ordered closed early.

Opening of trading in many leading stocks was delayed this morning because of a heavy accumulation of orders.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) advanced $1.62 to $69. Sinclair oil gained $1.75 at $42.25.

A New York Stock Exchange spokesman said the trading floor was more crowded than usual. He estimated 2,300 persons were on the floor, compared with the normal 2,000.

Newspaper Run By Computers

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)— The world's first fully automatic computer newspaper is The South Bend Tribune.

IBM and the Tribune Monday demonstrated the workings of the first newspaper plant to go completely to type set by computer for all news and classified matter.

Since Nov. 7, all four editions of the Tribune have been produced by an IBM model 1620 computer and related systems.

Unjustified tape is punched by operators, fed into the computer automatically, justified and corrected, and automatically sent to the proper Monarch typecaster. Unlike other similar systems, no one touches the tape from perforator to lincecaster.

Franklin D. Schurz, editor and publisher of the Tribune, listed many advantages — some still not fully realized—from use of the computer systems. He and Warren C. Hume, president of IBM's Data Processing Division addressed a gathering of about 40 production managers and trade press representatives from all over the country.

Troopers Hunt Kidnap Trio

BALDWIN (AP) — State police continued a search today for three men in hunting garb said to have kidnaped and raped a 32-year-old Coloma woman and her 12-year-old daughter Sunday.

Several suspects were questioned and released Monday, officers said. The woman's car had been stopped when a gunshot punctured a tire, police said. She and her daughter were taken in a 1963 blue Ford convertible or hardtop and assaulted in a lonely area northeast of Baldwin, they said.

down the steps of the church to greet the Kennedy family. John, 3, Monday and Caroline, 6 Wednesday joined their mother.

Then came the solemn service, a low Requiem Mass. "We pray," the cardinal intoned, "that John Kennedy may be spared all punishment and taken into paradise." There was no eulogy, but Auxiliary Bishop Philip M. Hannan spoke of the President's ideals and aspirations and read from his inaugural address in ringing tones.

Little John Salutes

"May the angels lead you into paradise" the choir sang as the cardinal led the procession from the church. He and the priests stepped aside so the honor guard could bring the casket in full view of the thousands lining the streets outside. As it was placed on the caisson for the journey to Arlington, John raised his hand and saluted his dad.

The sun was mellow as the funeral procession moved across the Potomac River. Slowly the six matched gray horses drawing the caisson made their way to the grave. As Mrs. Kennedy stepped from her limousine, ruffles and flourishes were sounded, then "The Star-Spangled Banner." A wail sounded from pipers of the Air Force Band.

The grave was piled with flowers, although Mrs. Kennedy had asked that none be sent.

The last honor guard for the President carried the casket slowly to his final resting place. At that moment there was a roar. Air Force and Navy planes — 50 in all for the 50 states—flew over in a salute. In a moving tribute, Air Force 1, the presidential jet, swept over.

Cardinal Cushing began reciting the burial prayers. He asked that the soul of the President be made the companion of the holy angels above; he asked that the Lord grant eternal peace to the soul of John Fitzgerald Kennnedy.

Mrs. Kennedy and the Kennedy brothers approached the casket. Riflemen fired three shots and a bugler sounded "Taps." The flag over the casket was folded and given to the 34-year-old widow.

She knelt again to say a prayer and lit the eternal flame.

Working Class To Get Leisure; Pros More Work

LANSING—At last we have the power to create what we have falsely boasted of for a long time—a one-class society, with everyone belonging to the leisure class, says Prof. John S. Diekhoff of the University of Michigan Center for the Study of Higher Education.

"Most members of the work force, especially in the future, will find their greatest satisfactions not in their work but in their leisure," Diefhoff said.

"Of course, the cultural revolution which accompanies automation may go in more than one direction," he said. "We may choose to become a nation of idlers, filling most of our disposable time with stultifying depressants—alcohol and television—as escapes from boredom. Or we may choose to become a nation in which every man is his own critic, every man his own philosopher, his own statesman."

Diekhoff pointed out that automation will give us fewer unskilled people and more in the highly skilled, clerical, professional and preprofessional occupations.

"There will be significant changes in higher education. Automation and increasing mechaniation of industry will result in increased production per man-hour of labor, in shorter work-weeks (and higher pay) for a large proportion of the labor force," he said.

Diekhoff said young people will enter the labor force later in life and older people will live longer after retirement. "In our society we have earned time for the occupations of adult leisure. Our present leisure and potential greater leisure constitute a better measure of our wealth than our possessions.

"We are on the verge of a society in which, if we let ourselves survive at all, almost everyone will have leisure—leisure punctuated by interludes of work," he said.

"The new leisure class will be made up of those who in the past have been regarded as the working class," he said. "So the 30-hour work week won't apply to all. There will be no sudden access of new leisure for professionals.

"On the contrary. Those who will continue to find their major satisfactions in work will be called on by society for more and more work," he stressed.

Chief effect of automation on education will be the obligation to make persons, not functionaries, Diekhoff said. "Schools will be called on to help make our newly earned leisure the growing time of the human spirit.

Sweet Potatoes Hide Untaxed Cigaret Cargo

DETROIT (AP)—Two wholesale grocers and two truck drivers from North Carolina were arrested here Monday for investigation of possessing $18,000 in allegedly untaxed cigarettes.

Police seized 7,500 cartons of cigarettes which they said were hidden in cases of sweet potatoes delivered by truck.

Taken into custody were Victor Geha, 45, of Detroit, and his brother-in-law, Edward Gazel, 42, of Lincoln Park, operators of the Midwest Produce Co., and truck drivers James Mitchell, 33, of Kenly, N.C., and Millert Williams, 21, of Bailey, N.C.

Police Inspector Earl Miller said the cigarettes were smuggled from Kenly. Miller said the tax on the $18,373 wholesale value of the cigarettes would be $5,250.

Man With Gun Seen On Roof?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police raced to the roof of the 7-story Internal Revenue Service Building today in response to a report that a man had been seen on the roof with a weapon.

The roof overlooks the Justice Department entrance used by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the assassinated President.

Officers of the General Services Administration found no one on the red-tiled roof. But officer David M. Randall said he had seen a man with what looked like a weapon when he inspected the roof from a tower of the adjacent Old Post Office Building.

The search apparently began when an Internal Revenue Service telephone operator called the IRS guard office with a report that someone had telephoned that a man had been seen on the roof.

The search centered on a corner of the roof overlooking the intersection of 10th Street and Constitution Avenue. Across 10th Street, seven stories down, is the door through which Robert Kennedy enters and leaves the Justice Department.

Kennedy, still in mourning over the death of his brother, had not come to the department at the time of the alert.

Police indicated they would keep an all-day watch on the roof and inspect elevators and vacant rooms in the Internal Revenue Service Building.

Ruling Given On Rail Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal arbitrators ruled today that 90 per cent of firemen's jobs on diesel yard engines and freight trains should be eliminated. They said this should be done by attrition or with job protection for most of the 40,000 union members affected.

The seven-member arbitration board in the long dispute over railroad work rules was set up under a law enacted by Congress in August which provided that its finding would be binding on both parties.

However, a spokesman for two of the five railroad unions said the arbitration award and the law under which it was made would be attacked in federal court.

Detroit Plumber Tells Of Kicking McKinley Killer

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit plumber who was so infuriated by the assassination of President McKinley in 1901 that he kicked the assailant in the face says he'd have done the same thing at President Kennedy's slaying in Dallas, Tex.

"If I'd been there in Dallas)," said Charles T. Gardner, now 84, "I'd have done it all again. I know I would."

Gardner and his first wife, Gertrude, were standing in line to shake hands with McKinley at Buffalo, N.y., on that day after the turn of the century when McKinley was shot by anarchist Leon Czolgosz.

"There were two people in front of us," Gardner said. "one had what seemed to be a bandaged hand and the other was a big guy. The bandage was hiding a gun and when he (Czolgosz) shot, the big guy knocked him down.

"I got in two good kicks, one right in the face, before police pulled me away."

"Of course," Gardner continued, "the killing of President Kennedy was different. The man—they have convinced me it was (Harvey Lee) Oswald — shot from the window and there was no one around to grab him.

"The shooting of Oswald was very like the shooting of President McKinley. The man just walked up.

"This killing brought the other one all back to me. I was pretty nervous. I really was."

Rockefeller And Goldwater Hold Up On Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York and Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona say they plan no political speeches for a month in deference to the late President John F. Kennedy.

Rockefeller, who has declared himself a candidate for the 1964 Republican presidential nomination, said Monday he will not push his candidacy during the 30-day period of mourning which he has decreed for New York State.

Goldwater, who leads polls as a potential GOP presidential nominee but has yet to declare himself in the running, told a reporter he has canceled three television appearances and will make no more political speeches this year.

Since the assassination of Kennedy "there is an absence of anything political to talk about," Goldwater said.

Rockefeller said in a statement that during the 30-day mourning period "I shall not participate personally in any public activity in connection with the Republican presidential nomination, nor in any other public activities with the exception of those falling within my official duties as governor of New York State."

Goldwater said that so far as he is concerned, the tragic sequence of events has removed the Kennedy administration as an issue.

"We want to see what President Johnson will do," he said. "We do not know what course he will take, whether he will change some of them.

"We want to give him all of the room he needs to operate and all of the help he needs. It would not be fair for the opposing party to heckle him while he is getting organized in his new job. Let's give him a couple of months to see what he can do."

Chairman William E. Miller postponed a Dec. 11-14 meeting of the National Republican Committee and said "total suspension of partisan political activity is called for" during the period of mourning.

Stock Market Buying Brisk

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading swelled to heavy proportions today when the stock market reopened after being closed for President Kennedy's funeral.

Prices advanced as initial quotations crossed the New York Stock Exchange ticker tape.

Brokers reported a flood of "buy" orders had been received over the weekend and Monday.

This was in sharp contrast to the panicky selling that developed Friday afternoon when word of the Kennedy's assassination was received. Prices plunged and exchanges were ordered closed early.

Opening of trading in many leading stocks was delayed this morning because of a heavy accumulation of orders.

Standard Oil (New Jersey) advanced $1.62 to $69. Sinclair oil gained $1.75 at $42.25.

A New York Stock Exchange spokesman said the trading floor was more crowded than usual. He estimated 2,300 persons were on the floor, compared with the normal 2,000.

Paintings Worth 10 Million Sent With Tomatoes

LONDON (AP) — A fortune in paintings arrived in London Monday night disguised as tomatoes.

Insurance men valued them at $10 million. Spanish galleries sent them for exhibit at the Royal Academy, beginning Dec. 7.

All the paintings are by Francisco Goya, one of whose portraits of the Duke of Wellington was stolen from Britain's National Gallery in 1961.

The 95 cases traveles from Spain in two railroad cars. From the outside they looked exactly like 37 others in the train, all loaded with tomatoes.

Sweet Potatoes Hide Untaxed Cigaret Cargo

DETROIT (AP)—Two wholesale grocers and two truck drivers from North Carolina were arrested here Monday for investigation of possessing $18,000 in allegedly untaxed cigarettes.

Police seized 7,500 cartons of cigarettes which they said were hidden in cases of sweet potatoes delivered by truck.

Taken into custody were Victor Geha, 45, of Detroit, and his brother-in-law, Edward Gazel, 42, of Lincoln Park, operators of the Midwest Produce Co., and truck drivers James Mitchell, 33, of Kenly, N.C., and Millert Williams, 21, of Bailey, N.C.

Police Inspector Earl Miller said the cigarettes were smuggled from Kenly. Miller said the tax on the $18,373 wholesale value of the cigarettes would be $5,250.

Man With Gun Seen On Roof?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police raced to the roof of the 7-story Internal Revenue Service Building today in response to a report that a man had been seen on the roof with a weapon.

The roof overlooks the Justice Department entrance used by Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, brother of the assassinated President.

Officers of the General Services Administration found no one on the red-tiled roof. But officer David M. Randall said he had seen a man with what looked like a weapon when he inspected the roof from a tower of the adjacent Old Post Office Building.

The search apparently began when an Internal Revenue Service telephone operator called the IRS guard office with a report that someone had telephoned that a man had been seen on the roof.

The search centered on a corner of the roof overlooking the intersection of 10th Street and Constitution Avenue. Across 10th Street, seven stories down, is the door through which Robert Kennedy enters and leaves the Justice Department.

Kennedy, still in mourning over the death of his brother, had not come to the department at the time of the alert.

Police indicated they would keep an all-day watch on the roof and inspect elevators and vacant rooms in the Internal Revenue Service Building.

Eliminate Tips

Dear Ann Landers: You baffle me with your sureness on tipping. You say the person who under-tips is ignorant and the one who over-tips is gauche. Yet, if you were to question five experts on the correct percentages for tipping you would get ten pieces of information — all conflicting.

It is unfortunate that so many people depend on tips for a living but it remains embarrassing, even for a seasoned traveler like myself, because I always feel I have over-tipped, thus proving to somebody that I am ignorant or gauche.

I'm ready to start an international union of anti-tippers if you will join me. Yes. I am willing to pay a higher price for meals, rooms and taxes, just to avoid higher mathematical acrobatics in determining the proper tip for people whose business it is to give service.

How about it? —C. E. R. OF BERKELEY

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter who is 17 became pregnant after going with Bryce for over a year. His parents called our daughter every name under the sun and refused to the marriage although Bryce was 22 at the time.

Bryce lives at home and works for his father. He telephones our daughter from the drug store every day and comes over several evenings during the week. He always parks his car about six blocks from our house because he doesn't want his folks to know he is here. We feel these two should be married but Bryce is so afraid of his folks he can't see straight.

Please tell us what we can do to get this boy to give our grandchild a name. —HER PARENTS

Dear Parents: A 22-year-old is no "boy" and he doesn't need parental consent to get married.

Your daughter is a fool to allow him to court her under the circumstances. Bryce should be told that unless he wants to accept the responsibilities of a husband and father he is not welcome in the house. And I urge her to do so before she finds herself with two "nameless" children on her hands. In the meantime you ought to get a lawyer to talk to Bryce about his legal obligations to support his child.

Dear Ann Landers: We live in a duplex. The downstairs neighbors keep oddball hours. The man works from 4:00 P.M. until midnight.

We have a 9-month-old daughter who makes a lot of laundry. My washing machine is in the kitchen (which is directly above their bedroom) and I run four or five loads every morning

My husband, like most men, goes to work at 8:30 A. M. and I do my housework in the morning like most women. This man downstairs bangs on the ceiling with a broom-handle, knocks on the pipes with a wrench and sometimes he telephones in a rage.

The other day he complained because our baby cried and woke him up. Don't you know it's Sunday?" he screamed. I told him if a 9-month-old baby knew Sunday from Wednesday she would be a genius.

Do you have any suggestions? —MONTREAL

Dear Montreal: Wear soft slippers in the morning and don't wash until 11:00 A. M. This will indicate a willingness on your part to cooperate. Perhaps he will then be less critical of the baby's crying and other noises which you cannot control.

Unified Thanksgiving Mrs. Hale's Project

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

On the last Thursday in November, 1863, a small but regal lady of 75, her dark brown cruls untinged by time, was quite possibly the happiest woman in the United States.

She was Sarah Josepha Buell Hale and because of her, the whole country was sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner that day.

For 17 years she had buttonholed governors to plead the cause of a unified holiday. She had corresponded with thousands of people, writing each letter herself with quill pen.

As time wore on she took to badgering Presidents, but only in the most genteel manner.

President Lincoln was her pigeon.

On Oct. 3, 1863, he issued a national proclamation, which began: "It is a time peculiarly fitting to give thanks since in the midst of Civil War peace has been preserved with all nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and harmony has prevailed except in the field of military conflict . . ."

It ended with a request that fellow citizens "set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a Day of Thanksgiving."

Who was the indefatigable Mrs. Hale?

Was "Editress"

She was the editress (Victorians loved to discriminate between the sexes) of Godey's Lady's Book, a 19th century McCall's, until she died at 90.

She wrote some two dozen sentimental novels and helpful books on cooking and housekeeping, plus hundreds of poems, (including "Poems for Children — written to inculcate moral truths and virtuous sentiments," but all she is remembered for is "Mary's Lamb."

She championed women's causes, got the first women medical missionaries sent abroad, persuaded Matthew Vassar to drop the odious word "Female" from Vassar Female College, organized the Seamen's Aid Society, sent bills to Congress to ask for free normal schools for teachers, talked a New York store owner into employing the first women clerks in town, advocated elementary education for girls equal to that of boys, started the first day nursery, raised the money to finish Bunker Hill Monument, and on and on.

In short, Mrs. Hale was a crusader — but a ladylike one.

A Widow

Left a widow at 34 with five small children to support, she tried millinery and failed, started writing books and at 40 became the first woman editor of a magazine in the country.

At a time when it was improper — and almost economically impossible — for a gentlewoman to earn her own money, she made good money and was accepted by the socially elite.

She never antagonized her Victorian public, but for 50 years she cajoled it into one reform or another. As she said at one time: "Every woman has a mission on earth. There is something to do for each one; a household to put in order, a child to attend to, some degraded and homeless humanity to befriend."

Considered a striking beauty who never showed her age, all her life she wore her hair in side curls, because her husband had liked it that way.

Her only beauty secret: Strips of brown butcher paper soaked in fresh apple vinegar applied to her temples at night to discourage wrinkles — a remedy considered old-fashioned even them. She nearly always wore silk "because it shook the dust," indulged in costly laces, hated earrings, deplored tight lacing in girdles as injurious to health, preached the healthful virtues of exercise and cleanliness.

Started Early

Her urge for a country wide Thanksgiving Day started early She was 1 year old in 1789 when George Washington first proclaimed Thanksgiving Day.

In the years after, each state fixed its own date, if it celebrated it at all. Some governors appointed the time just after harvest, others after public canals closed, on Long Island it was observed after the cows were driven home from sea pastures.

"It matters much religiously and nationally that all observe the same day . . . " she wrote editorially and proceeded to do something about it.

As early as November, 1846, she suggested all the states adopt the last Thursday in November. She repeated it patiently each year and carried on voluminous letter-writing.

She relaxed briefly after Lincoln came through so gallantly, but three years later, when Andrew Johnson succeeded to the Presidency she felt a little uncertain. She made an editorial plea for a Presidential proclamation. Johnson responded the way Mrs. Hale intended, and so have all Presidents since.

PUMPKIN TEAMS with dates in this special bread.

New Starring Role

By Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Pumpkin belongs in the Thanksgiving menu. But not always in pie. Here are two delicious variations — one a pumpkin date bread, the other pumpkin ginger casserole to serve with the turkey.

To make the pumpkin ginger casserole use 4 cups of 1½-inch cubes of fresh pumpkin, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger and very little salt and pepper and 3 tablespoons water. Place pumpkin in a buttered casserole. Mix all the other ingredients. Pour over the pumpkin. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Uncover and bake another 15 minutes.

Pumpkin Date Bread
(1 9-inch loaf)

1 cup fresh dates
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup canned pumpkin
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
3 cups packaged biscuit mix

Chop dates. In a large mixing bowl, stir together dates, sugar, egg, pumpkin, salt, spice, orange rind and juice. Add biscuit mix; beat briskly 30 seconds. Turn into well-greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 45 to 50 minutes or until done. Cool before slicing. If desired drizzle a glaze of powdered sugar, orange rind and juice over slightly warm loaf and garnish with additional dates.

Let Children Help With Holiday

ADD A FESTIVE garnish to your holiday turkey — Stuff mashed sweet potatoes into shining cornucopias made of super-strength aluminum foil.

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Young children deserve a chance to "help" at holiday time. Letting them do so is worthwhile because this way they feel they are an important and happy part of the family.

Here are some suggestions for chores they'll enjoy and that may save busy mothers some time.

Dusting—especially the rungs of chairs!

Polishing, washing and drying cutlery.

Setting the table.

Cracking nuts. Peanuts are the easiest for small fingers to manage.

Grinding raw cranberries in a food chopper for the ever-popular raw cranberry relish to accompany turkey. Youngsters also enjoy mixing in the sugar needed, and usually stir and stir.

Grinding dry bread crumbs in a food chopper for turkey stuffing.

Crumbling corn bread for turkey stuffing. Clean hands needed here, as in all other kitchen chores.

Garnishing. Young visitors at our house adore using tiny canape cutters, cutting out miniature leaves from canned pimiento to garnish the crackers they spread with cheese.

Scooping out seeds from pumpkin or squash. A paddle-type wooden spoon plus fingers help along this work.

Making a centerpiece for the holiday table. Fruit or vegetables are easier than flowers for small boys and girls to handle.

As an extra-special, you can show your youngsters how to make cornucopias from aluminum foil. They'll enjoy filling these with raisins and nuts for favors. Or the cornucopias may be filled with seasoned mashed sweet potatoes and oven-heated as a garnish for the holiday bird.

Foil Cornucopias

For each cornucopia—Tear off 2 sheets of super-strength aluminum foil (12-inch roll) so that they are 1½ times (about 9 inches) the length of a small fruit juice glass (about 6 inches). Place 1 sheet of foil on top of the other. Placing rim of glass along the long edge of foil, roll the double piece of foil around the glass. Gently crush the portion of foil that extends beyond the bottom of the glass so as to form the tapered end of the cornucopia; curl the tip of the cone into a small ball. Remove glass and place fingers inside cone to mold into cornucopia shape. At the opening, crush and bend in edges until one side is shorter than the other, forming the traditional wide slanted mouth of the cornucopia.

WOMEN'S ACTIVITIES

Unified Thanksgiving Mrs. Hale's Project

By JOY MILLER
AP Women's Editor

On the last Thursday in November, 1863, a small but regal lady of 75, her dark brown cruls untinged by time, was quite possibly the happiest woman in the United States.

She was Sarah Josepha Buell Hale and because of her, the whole country was sitting down to Thanksgiving dinner that day.

For 17 years she had buttonholed governors to plead the cause of a unified holiday. She had corresponded with thousands of people, writing each letter herself with quill pen.

As time wore on she took to badgering Presidents, but only in the most genteel manner.

President Lincoln was her pigeon.

On Oct. 3, 1863, he issued a national proclamation, which began: "It is a time peculiarly fitting to give thanks since in the midst of Civil War peace has been preserved with all nations, order has been maintained, the laws have been respected and harmony has prevailed except in the field of military conflict . . ."

It ended with a request that fellow citizens "set apart and observe the last Thursday of November next as a Day of Thanksgiving."

Who was the indefatigable Mrs. Hale?

Was "Editress"

She was the editress (Victorians loved to discriminate between the sexes) of Godey's Lady's Book, a 19th century McCall's, until she died at 90.

She wrote some two dozen sentimental novels and helpful books on cooking and housekeeping, plus hundreds of poems, (including "Poems for Children — written to inculcate moral truths and virtuous sentiments," but all she is remembered for is "Mary's Lamb."

She championed women's causes, got the first women medical missionaries sent abroad, persuaded Matthew Vassar to drop the odious word "Female" from Vassar Female College, organized the Seamen's Aid Society, sent bills to Congress to ask for free normal schools for teachers, talked a New York store owner into employing the first women clerks in town, advocated elementary education for girls equal to that of boys, started the first day nursery, raised the money to finish Bunker Hill Monument, and on and on.

In short, Mrs. Hale was a crusader — but a ladylike one.

A Widow

Left a widow at 34 with five small children to support, she tried millinery and failed, started writing books and at 40 became the first woman editor of a magazine in the country.

At a time when it was improper — and almost economically impossible — for a gentlewoman to earn her own money, she made good money and was accepted by the socially elite.

She never antagonized her Victorian public, but for 50 years she cajoled it into one reform or another. As she said at one time: "Every woman has a mission on earth. There is something to do for each one; a household to put in order, a child to attend to, some degraded and homeless humanity to befriend."

Considered a striking beauty who never showed her age, all her life she wore her hair in side curls, because her husband had liked it that way.

Her only beauty secret: Strips of brown butcher paper soaked in fresh apple vinegar applied to her temples at night to discourage wrinkles — a remedy considered old-fashioned even them. She nearly always wore silk "because it shook the dust," indulged in costly laces, hated earrings, deplored tight lacing in girdles as injurious to health, preached the healthful virtues of exercise and cleanliness.

Started Early

Her urge for a country wide Thanksgiving Day started early She was 1 year old in 1789 when George Washington first proclaimed Thanksgiving Day.

In the years after, each state fixed its own date, if it celebrated it at all. Some governors appointed the time just after harvest, others after public canals closed, on Long Island it was observed after the cows were driven home from sea pastures.

"It matters much religiously and nationally that all observe the same day . . . " she wrote editorially and proceeded to do something about it.

As early as November, 1846, she suggested all the states adopt the last Thursday in November. She repeated it patiently each year and carried on voluminous letter-writing.

She relaxed briefly after Lincoln came through so gallantly, but three years later, when Andrew Johnson succeeded to the Presidency she felt a little uncertain. She made an editorial plea for a Presidential proclamation. Johnson responded the way Mrs. Hale intended, and so have all Presidents since.

PUMPKIN TEAMS with dates in this special bread.

New Starring Role

By Gaynor Maddox
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Pumpkin belongs in the Thanksgiving menu. But not always in pie. Here are two delicious variations — one a pumpkin date bread, the other pumpkin ginger casserole to serve with the turkey.

To make the pumpkin ginger casserole use 4 cups of 1½-inch cubes of fresh pumpkin, ¼ cup butter or margarine, ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons chopped preserved ginger and very little salt and pepper and 3 tablespoons water. Place pumpkin in a buttered casserole. Mix all the other ingredients. Pour over the pumpkin. Cover. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) 45 minutes. Uncover and bake another 15 minutes.

Pumpkin Date Bread
(1 9-inch loaf)

1 cup fresh dates
½ cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg, slightly beaten
1 cup canned pumpkin
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon pumpkin pie spice
2 tablespoons grated orange rind
½ cup orange juice
3 cups packaged biscuit mix

Chop dates. In a large mixing bowl, stir together dates, sugar, egg, pumpkin, salt, spice, orange rind and juice. Add biscuit mix; beat briskly 30 seconds. Turn into well-greased 9x5x3-inch loaf pan. Bake in 350-degree (moderate) oven 45 to 50 minutes or until done. Cool before slicing. If desired drizzle a glaze of powdered sugar, orange rind and juice over slightly warm loaf and garnish with additional dates.

Let Children Help With Holiday

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Young children deserve a chance to "help" at holiday time. Letting them do so is worthwhile because this way they feel they are an important and happy part of the family.

Here are some suggestions for chores they'll enjoy and that may save busy mothers some time.

Dusting—especially the rungs of chairs!

Polishing, washing and drying cutlery.

Setting the table.

Cracking nuts. Peanuts are the easiest for small fingers to manage.

Grinding raw cranberries in a food chopper for the ever-popular raw cranberry relish to accompany turkey. Youngsters also enjoy mixing in the sugar needed, and usually stir and stir.

Grinding dry bread crumbs in a food chopper for turkey stuffing.

Crumbling corn bread for turkey stuffing. Clean hands needed here, as in all other kitchen chores.

Garnishing. Young visitors at our house adore using tiny canape cutters, cutting out miniature leaves from canned pimiento to garnish the crackers they spread with cheese.

Scooping out seeds from pumpkin or squash. A paddle-type wooden spoon plus fingers help along this work.

Making a centerpiece for the holiday table. Fruit or vegetables are easier than flowers for small boys and girls to handle.

As an extra-special, you can show your youngsters how to make cornucopias from aluminum foil. They'll enjoy filling these with raisins and nuts for favors. Or the cornucopias may be filled with seasoned mashed sweet potatoes and oven-heated as a garnish for the holiday bird.

Foil Cornucopias

For each cornucopia—Tear off 2 sheets of super-strength aluminum foil (12-inch roll) so that they are 1½ times (about 9 inches) the length of a small fruit juice glass (about 6 inches). Place 1 sheet of foil on top of the other. Placing rim of glass along the long edge of foil, roll the double piece of foil around the glass. Gently crush the portion of foil that extends beyond the bottom of the glass so as to form the tapered end of the cornucopia; curl the tip of the cone into a small ball. Remove glass and place fingers inside cone to mold into cornucopia shape. At the opening, crush and bend in edges until one side is shorter than the other, forming the traditional wide slanted mouth of the cornucopia.

Coach Regards Mira As Better Than Last Year

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Is George Mira, Miami's All-America a year ago, still a topnotch quarterback in spite of his team's 3-5 record this season?

Here's how his coach, Andy Gustafson, answers the question:

"Despite every conceivable handicap, George has been far greater than he was in 1962. There is no doubt that he is the nation's greatest passing quarterback.

"If you don't believe it, wait and see who is the No. 1 choice in the National Football League draft."

Unquestionably, any pro club would jump at the chance to grab the 6-foot-2, 182 - pound bomber whose accurate aerial shots have propelled him close to the top of the list among college football's all-time great passers.

The San Francisco 49ers reportedly have a fat contract ready for Mira if they get first call in the NFL draft.

Mira's individual statistics seem to support Gustafson's stand.

Playing on a comparatively weak team, he has completed 123 passes in eight games for 1,548 yards.

That's 23 more completions and 200 more yards than he got in the first eight games last year, when Miami had compiled a 6-2 record. His percentage this season is .508, compared with .479 last season.

In total offense, he has 1,675 yards against 1,465 in 1962.

Biggest among Mira's handicaps in his fight to repeat as an All-America has been a lack of blocking in many games. He has made some of his most sensational throws while virtually running for his life from enemy rushers.

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Marquette University will signal the opening of its basketball season next month in bouncy fashion—with relays of students dribbling a basketball from the Kalamazoo, Mich., home of Western Michigan University to Milwaukee, where Marquette will host to the Broncos Dec. 7.

Texas Still Top Team In Rating; Spartans 4th

By The Associated Press

Due to cancellations and postponements in respect to the memory of the late President Kennedy, only a handful of college football games were played last weekend. As a result there were few changes in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Texas, due to end its regular season Thursday in its usual test with Texas AM, remained in the No. 1 position as the only major unbeaten and untied team in the nation. The final poll will be held next week.

With the fate of the Army-Navy game still hanging in the balance, awaiting a final decision from Washington, idle Navy clung to second place. It was considered likely that Navy would be invited to the Cotton Bowl for a New Year's Day game with Texas if the Middies beat the Cadets.

Mississippi, which had an open date before Saturday's final game with Mississippi State, remained in the No. 3 spot. Then came Michigan State, whose important Big Ten finale with Illinois was put off until Thursday.

Pittsburgh's game with Penn State was postponed to Dec. 7, but the Panthers held position No. 5. Pitt plays Miami, Fla. Saturday night. Alabama, idle since Nov. 16, moved up a peg to No. 6 with an important game coming up Saturday against Auburn.

The only big shuffle resulted in Nebraska a 29-20 winner over Oklahoma for the Big Eight title, moving up to No. 7 from 10th a week ago. Oklahoma, which had been No. 6, fell to No. 10.

Illinois, waiting for the big game with Michigan State, remained No. 8, followed by Auburn which defeated Florida State 21-15.

Nebraska is the only team among the Top Ten to have finished its regular schedule.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8 etc., basis:

		Pts.
1.	Texas (20)	218
2.	Navy (2)	170
3.	Mississippi	157
4.	Michigan State	155
5.	Pitsburgh	123
6.	Alabama	118
7.	Nebraska	82
8.	Illinois	76
9.	Auburn	74
10.	Oklahoma	12

Lions Tackle Rugged Foes

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions, with seven losses already, play all title contenders in their final three games. It could doom them to their worst season in 15 years.

Losses in these games would leave the Lions with a 4-10 record. They haven't lost 10 games since the 1948 season.

The final crush on the Lions starts with the Thanksgiving Day game against the Green Bay Packers, who are in position to grab first place in the National Football League's western division if the Chicago Bears should lose a game.

Then the Lions meet the Cleveland Browns, who share the eastern division lead with two other teams, and finish against the western division-leading Bears.

Injured defensive backs Dick (Night Train) Lane and Yale Lary may return for the Packers game, filling some of the gaps in the Detroit defense.

Grid Semifinal Playoffs Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The semifinal football playoffs in the National Association of Intercollegiate athletics will match College of Emporia (Kan.) against St. John's (Minn.), and Kearney State (Neb.) against Prairie View A&M (Texas).

The Emporia-St. John's game will be at Minneapolis Saturday, Nov. 30, and the Kearney-Prairie View game will be at Kearney Saturday, Dec. 7.

The two winners will meet for the NAIA championship in the Camellia Bowl game at Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 14.

The NAIA selection committee completed arrangements for the playoffs and announced the selections of Prairie View and Emporia Monday. Kearney and St. John's were chosen last week.

Emporia has a 25-game winning streak in regular season play—longest in the NAIA.

Prairie View is the first Negro team to gain a spot in the football semifinals.

Lions To Miss Playoff Berth

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the pro football wash:

The National Football League's conference races are far from settled, but one thing was settled Sunday. The Detroit Lions, who have held the Western Conference franchise in the Playoff Bowl for the three years since it was inaugurated, will not be playing in Miami Jan. 5.

The Lions have been in all three previous games matching the runners-up in each conference. They cannot finish as high as second this season, but likely will play a key role in deciding who does—either Chicago or Green Bay.

The one that doesn't will be the Western Conference champion.

The Lions meet the second-place Packers Thanksgiving and tangle with the first-place Bears Dec. 15 on the final day of the regular season.

Quote of the Week: Honors go to St. Louis defensive back Jerry Stovall. Asked if the Cardinals had anticipated a fake field goal try by the Giants in the fourth period, Stovall said the Cards were adequately prepared for a pass.

"In fact," he said, "this is the first time I've been on a team with 11 safety men."

Sunday may have been the day of decision for four NFL coaches . . . Philadelphia's Nick Skorich may have lost his job while losing to Washington 13-10 and dropping into the Eastern Division cellar . . . At the same time, Bill McPeak of the Redskins came through with a much needed victory . . . Harland Svarre of Los Angeles also seems to have secured his job with the Rams beating Baltimore for their fourth victory in the last six games . . . But Jack Christiansen of San Francisco watched the 49ers record drop to 2-9 after a loss to the Packers, and needs improvement quick.

Black Hawks Pace Scorers

MONTREAL (AP)—The Chicago Black Hawks, running away with the National Hockey League race and scoring goals at a season record pace, placed six men in the top ten scoring list, statistics showed today.

Hawks rank 1-2 in points and 1-2-3 in goals. Bobby Hull with 31 and Stan Mikita with 30 top the points makers, and Hull, 14, Mikita, 13, and Kenny Wharram, 12, are the leading goal makers.

The Hawks, leading the league by nine points, have scored 73 goals in 19 games. At that rate they would have 269 goals for the season, topping the record 259 scored by the Montreal Canadiens in 1961-61.

At the same point last year, the Hawks also led the league, but with only 50 goals.

Chicago goalies Glenn Hall and Denis DeJordy also top the league, with a goals against average of 2.11.

Pete Elliott Bowled Over

CHAMPAIGN, Illl. (AP)—The Illinois football team will be in top condition for its Big Ten title battle with Michigan State Thursday but the same can't be said for Coach Pete Elliott.

Elliott was decked by reserve halfback Les Feuquay during practice Monday and suffered torn ligaments in his left knee. Feuquay was running wide out of a Michigan State formation when he hit the coach.

Elliott, who wryly responded "better me than one of my players," was expected to have the knee placed in a cast today.

Despite his injury, Elliott was able to smile after his Illini went through a sharp two-hour drill. "I thought they looked pretty good coming off of a two-day layoff," he said. "I was pleased with their attitude."

No Word Yet On Army - Navy Football Game

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"We all feel like we have been hit in the pit of the stomach," said Navy Coach Wayne Hardin. "We haven't an inkling about playing the game."

Army Coach Paul Dietzel said his team was "waiting for a decision."

The decision on whether to play the Army-Navy football game, scheduled for Saturday in Philadelphia, will have to come from the Pentagon. It may come today.

Officials of both service academies have said they are in favor of playing, since they feel that President Kennedy had a great interest in football and sports generally. The late President attended the last two games.

However, the next 30 days have been designated as a period of mourning for the armed services.

Auburn has the inside track on an Orange Bowl bid, bowl officials said, if the Tigers put up a good show against Alabama in the final game Saturday. Auburn is ranked No. 9, Alabama No. 6.

Bama is a likely participant in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, as is Mississippi.

If Auburn should stumble badly against its state rival, the Orange Bowl sponsors may look in Pitt's direction. The Panthers play Miami Saturday night, in their next-to-last game. They also have been mentioned for the Gator Bowl.

Michigan State went back to work late Monday to prepare for the postponed meeting with Illinois, now scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, that will settle the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl assignment—but the squad showed none of its usual zest and high spirits.

"This wasn't a normal day," Coach Duffy Daugherty said. "They had just come from watching the funeral of the President on television."

Daugherty said further practice sessions would be closed to fans and newsmen, as the coaches try to build up enthusiasm again for the game.

Illinois delayed its workout until after burial ceremonies were ended.

Two New Teams For Tangerine

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two teams which have never appeared in the Tangerine Bowl football game will meet here Dec. 28 in the 18th annual affair.

Bowl officials announced Monday night that the Coast Guard Academy of New London, Conn., coached by Otto Graham of Cleveland Browns fame, will oppose Western Kentucky of Bowling Green. The Kentucky team was chosen earlier.

Claassen Picks Spartans To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the major bowl berths and conference titles are still undecided going into the last big weekend of the college football season. A majority of last week's scheduled settlers were postponed because of the death of President Kennedy.

Here are the winners for the remainder of the season:

Texas over Texas A&M: If Tommy Ford can't outrun the determined Cadets Thanksgiving Day, then Tony Crosby will kick arross the decisive points. Texas takes a perfect record into the Cotton Bowl game.

Navy over Army: The Middies successfully complete their Drive for Five Saturday. Army strictly an infantry aggregation, has neither an aerial offense nor anti-aircraft weapons and Roger Staubach not only can scramble and run but he also can pass.

Harvard over Yale: This is one of the postponed games that will be played Saturday. The late President's Alma Mater will trihmph decisively.

Syracuse over Notre Dame: It took most of the season but Syracuse's backfield questions all have been answered, which is bad news for Notre Dame. The scene is Yankee Stadium on Thursday.

Michigan State over Illinois: The Spartans grab the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl assignment in one swoop.

Alabama over Auburn: A Saturday bruiser, and Alabama has the corner on muscles.

Mississippi over Mississippi State: In recent years this has been a mere workout for Ole Miss., always en route to a New Year's Day bowl contest. This Saturday it will be a rugged affair but the result will be the same.

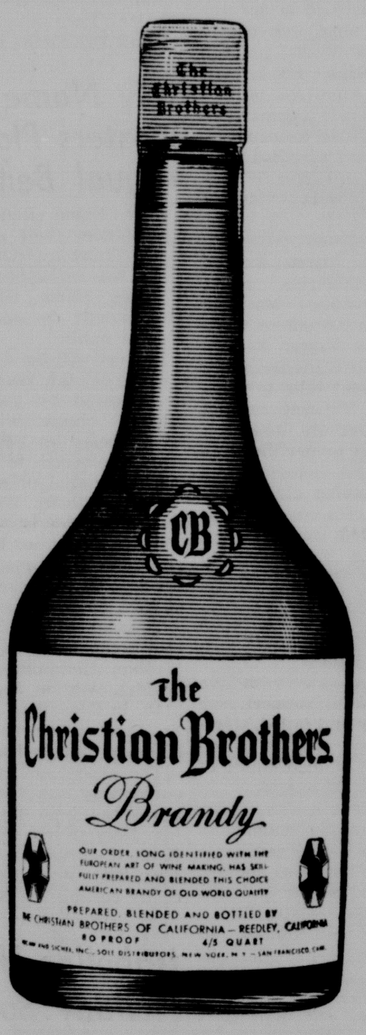

Long Distance Runners Set

EAST LANSING (AP) — Some 240 long distance runners were expected to start (at 11:30 a.m.) today in the 25th annual NCAA Cross - Country meet, which was postponed from Monday because of President Kennedy's funeral.

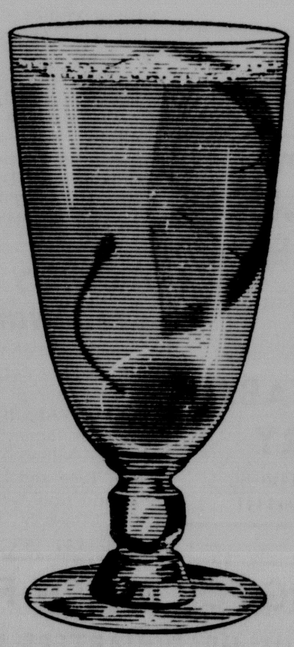

Moderate westerly winds up to 15 miles per hour and temperatures in the low 40's were expected.

About 45 colleges and universities were expected to be represented by at least one runner, and 23 sent team entries of five or more.

Favored team was San Jose State of California, which won last year in a meet also held at MSU's Forest Akers Gold course.

Albion Player Most Valuable

ALBION (AP)—Albion College fullback J.B. Elzy has been named the Most Valuable Football player for 1963 by the coaches of the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association (MIAA).

Elzy, a 5-11, 190-pound senior from Flint, is the first Negro to win the award. He was presented the Randall C. Bosch Trophy by its donor, a Holland industrialist.

Texas Still Top Team In Rating; Spartans 4th

By The Associated Press

Due to cancellations and postponements in respect to the memory of the late President Kennedy, only a handful of college football games were played last weekend. As a result there were few changes in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Texas, due to end its regular season Thursday in its usual test with Texas AM, remained in the No. 1 position as the only major unbeaten and untied team in the nation. The final poll will be held next week.

With the fate of the Army-Navy game still hanging in the balance, awaiting a final decision from Washington, idle Navy clung to second place. It was considered likely that Navy would be invited to the Cotton Bowl for a New Year's Day game with Texas if the Middies beat the Cadets.

Mississippi, which had an open date before Saturday's final game with Mississippi State, remained in the No. 3 spot. Then came Michigan State, whose important Big Ten finale with Illinois was put off until Thursday.

Pittsburgh's game with Penn State was postponed to Dec. 7, but the Panthers held position No. 5. Pitt plays Miami, Fla. Saturday night. Alabama, idle since Nov. 16, moved up a peg to No. 6 with an important game coming up Saturday against Auburn.

The only big shuffle resulted in Nebraska a 29-20 winner over Oklahoma for the Big Eight title, moving up to No. 7 from 10th a week ago. Oklahoma, which had been No. 6, fell to No. 10.

Illinois, waiting for the big game with Michigan State, remained No. 8, followed by Auburn which defeated Florida State 21-15.

Nebraska is the only team among the Top Ten to have finished its regular schedule.

The Top Ten with first-place votes in parentheses and points on a 10-9-8 etc., basis:

		Pts.
1.	Texas (20)	218
2.	Navy (2)	170
3.	Mississippi	157
4.	Michigan State	155
5.	Pitsburgh	123
6.	Alabama	118
7.	Nebraska	82
8.	Illinois	76
9.	Auburn	74
10.	Oklahoma	12

Lions Tackle Rugged Foes

DETROIT (AP) — The Detroit Lions, with seven losses already, play all title contenders in their final three games. It could doom them to their worst season in 15 years.

Losses in these games would leave the Lions with a 4-10 record. They haven't lost 10 games since the 1948 season.

The final crush on the Lions starts with the Thanksgiving Day game against the Green Bay Packers, who are in position to grab first place in the National Football League's western division if the Chicago Bears should lose a game.

Then the Lions meet the Cleveland Browns, who share the eastern division lead with two other teams, and finish against the western division-leading Bears.

Injured defensive backs Dick (Night Train) Lane and Yale Lary may return for the Packers game, filling some of the gaps in the Detroit defense.

Grid Semifinal Playoffs Set

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The semifinal football playoffs in the National Association of Intercollegiate athletics will match College of Emporia (Kan.) against St. John's (Minn.), and Kearney State (Neb.) against Prairie View A&M (Texas).

The Emporia-St. John's game will be at Minneapolis Saturday, Nov. 30, and the Kearney-Prairie View game will be at Kearney Saturday, Dec. 7.

The two winners will meet for the NAIA championship in the Camellia Bowl game at Sacramento, Calif., Dec. 14.

The NAIA selection committee completed arrangements for the playoffs and announced the selections of Prairie View and Emporia Monday. Kearney and St. John's were chosen last week.

Emporia has a 25-game winning streak in regular season play—longest in the NAIA.

Prairie View is the first Negro team to gain a spot in the football semifinals.

By MIKE RATHET

NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the pro football wash:

The National Football League's conference races are far from settled, but one thing was settled Sunday. The Detroit Lions, who have held the Western Conference franchise in the Playoff Bowl for the three years since it was inaugurated, will not be playing in Miami Jan. 5.

The Lions have been in all three previous games matching the runners-up in each conference. They cannot finish as high as second this season, but likely will play a key role in deciding who does—either Chicago or Green Bay.

The one that doesn't will be the Western Conference champion.

The Lions meet the second-place Packers Thanksgiving and tangle with the first-place Bears Dec. 15 on the final day of the regular season.

Quote of the Week: Honors go to St. Louis defensive back Jerry Stovall. Asked if the Cardinals had anticipated a fake field goal try by the Giants in the fourth period, Stovall said the Cards were adequately prepared for a pass.

"In fact," he said, "this is the first time I've been on a team with 11 safety men."

Sunday may have been the day of decision for four NFL coaches . . . Philadelphia's Nick Skorich may have lost his job while losing to Washington 13-10 and dropping into the Eastern Division cellar . . . At the same time, Bill McPeak of the Redskins came through with a much needed victory . . . Harland Svarre of Los Angeles also seems to have secured his job with the Rams beating Baltimore for their fourth victory in the last six games . . . But Jack Christiansen of San Francisco watched the 49ers record drop to 2-9 after a loss to the Packers, and needs improvement quick.

Black Hawks Pace Scorers

MONTREAL (AP)—The Chicago Black Hawks, running away with the National Hockey League race and scoring goals at a season record pace, placed six men in the top ten scoring list, statistics showed today.

Hawks rank 1-2 in points and 1-2-3 in goals. Bobby Hull with 31 and Stan Mikita with 30 top the points makers, and Hull, 14, Mikita, 13, and Kenny Wharram, 12, are the leading goal makers.

The Hawks, leading the league by nine points, have scored 73 goals in 19 games. At that rate they would have 269 goals for the season, topping the record 259 scored by the Montreal Canadiens in 1961-61.

At the same point last year, the Hawks also led the league, but with only 50 goals.

Chicago goalies Glenn Hall and Denis DeJordy also top the league, with a goals against average of 2.11.

City League Meets Tonight

The organization meeting of the Escanaba City Basketball League scheduled last night was reslated for tonight at 7 at the Junior High gym.

Representatives of all teams must attend as league rules and the season schedule will be drawn up.

Pete Elliott Bowled Over

CHAMPAIGN, Illl. (AP)—The Illinois football team will be in top condition for its Big Ten title battle with Michigan State Thursday but the same can't be said for Coach Pete Elliott.

Elliott was decked by reserve halfback Les Feuquay during practice Monday and suffered torn ligaments in his left knee. Feuquay was running wide out of a Michigan State formation when he hit the coach.

Elliott, who wryly responded "better me than one of my players," was expected to have the knee placed in a cast today.

Despite his injury, Elliott was able to smile after his Illini went through a sharp two-hour drill. "I thought they looked pretty good coming off of a two-day layoff," he said. "I was pleased with their attitude."

No Word Yet On Army-Navy Football Game

By JIM BECKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"We all feel like we have been hit in the pit of the stomach," said Navy Coach Wayne Hardin. "We haven't an inkling about playing the game."

Army Coach Paul Dietzel said his team was "waiting for a decision."

The decision on whether to play the Army-Navy football game, scheduled for Saturday in Philadelphia, will have to come from the Pentagon. It may come today.

Officials of both service academies have said they are in favor of playing, since they feel that President Kennedy had a great interest in football and sports generally. The late President attended the last two games.

However, the next 30 days have been designated as a period of mourning for the armed services.

Auburn has the inside track on an Orange Bowl bid, bowl officials said, if the Tigers put up a good show against Alabama in the final game Saturday. Auburn is ranked No. 9, Alabama No. 6.

Bama is a likely participant in the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans, as is Mississippi.

If Auburn should stumble badly against its state rival, the Orange Bowl sponsors may look in Pitt's direction. The Panthers play Miami Saturday night, in their next-to-last game. They also have been mentioned for the Gator Bowl.

Michigan State went back to work late Monday to prepare for the postponed meeting with Illinois, now scheduled for Thanksgiving Day, that will settle the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl assignment—but the squad showed none of its usual zest and high spirits.

"This wasn't a normal day," Coach Duffy Daugherty said. "They had just come from watching the funeral of the President on television."

Daugherty said further practice sessions would be closed to fans and newsmen, as the coaches try to build up enthusiasm again for the game.

Illinois delayed its workout until after burial ceremonies were ended.

Two New Teams For Tangerine

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two teams which have never appeared in the Tangerine Bowl football game will meet here Dec. 28 in the 18th annual affair.

Bowl officials announced Monday night that the Coast Guard Academy of New London, Conn., coached by Otto Graham of Cleveland Browns fame, will oppose Western Kentucky of Bowling Green. The Kentucky team was chosen earlier.

Claassen Picks Spartans To Win

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Most of the major bowl berths and conference titles are still undecided going into the last big weekend of the college football season. A majority of last week's scheduled settlers were postponed because of the death of President Kennedy.

Here are the winners for the remainder of the season:

Texas over Texas A&M: If Tommy Ford can't outrun the determined Cadets Thanksgiving Day, then Tony Crosby will kick arross the decisive points. Texas takes a perfect record into the Cotton Bowl game.

Navy over Army: The Middies successfully complete their Drive for Five Saturday. Army strictly an infantry aggregation, has neither an aerial offense nor anti-aircraft weapons and Roger Staubach not only can scramble and run but he also can pass.

Harvard over Yale: This is one of the postponed games that will be played Saturday. The late President's Alma Mater will trihmph decisively.

Syracuse over Notre Dame: It took most of the season but Syracuse's backfield questions all have been answered, which is bad news for Notre Dame. The scene is Yankee Stadium on Thursday.

Michigan State over Illinois: The Spartans grab the Big Ten title and the Rose Bowl assignment in one swoop.

Alabama over Auburn: A Saturday bruiser, and Alabama has the corner on muscles.

Mississippi over Mississippi State: In recent years this has been a mere workout for Ole Miss., always en route to a New Year's Day bowl contest. This Saturday it will be a rugged affair but the result will be the same.

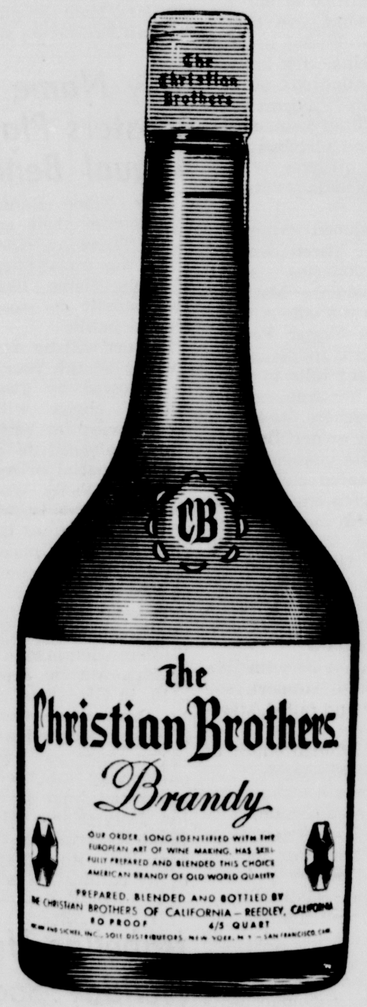

Long Distance Runners Set

EAST LANSING (AP) — Some 240 long distance runners were expected to start (at 11:30 a.m.) today in the 25th annual NCAA Cross - Country meet, which was postponed from Monday because of President Kennedy's funeral.

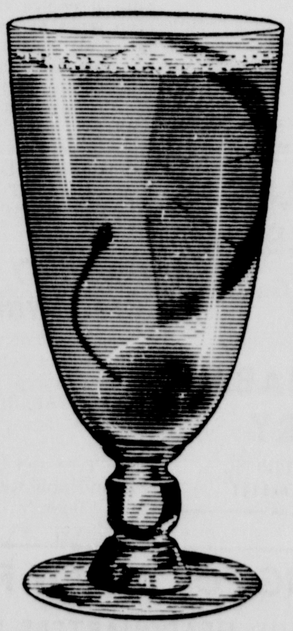

Moderate westerly winds up to 15 miles per hour and temperatures in the low 40's were expected.

About 45 colleges and universities were expected to be represented by at least one runner, and 23 sent team entries of five or more.

Favored team was San Jose State of California, which won last year in a meet also held at MSU's Forest Akers Gold course.

U. S. Fort Built Out In Iowa To Keep Indians In

FORT ATKINSON, Iowa (AP) — Slumbering on a bluff overlooking the Turkey River in northeast Iowa is what remains of old Ft. Atkinson — only Army fort in American history built to protect one Indian tribe from another.

Ft. Atkinson might never have been built if northeast Iowa hadn't been so plentifully supplied with game.

For centuries the area was the favorite hunting ground for Indian tribes, and they fought bloody wars over it.

The Sioux to the north and the Sac and Fox to the south were carrying on sporadic warfare among themselves in northeast Iowa when the first white settlers pushed into the lands east of the Mississippi River. Uneasiness over the encroachment of the white man heightened the tension between the two tribes.

The United States then stepped in as peace maker. It established a "neutral line" running from the Upper Iowa River south and west through the Turkey River bottom southwest of Decorah. The tribes agreed to stay 20 miles on either side of the line.

That's the way things stood until 1840, when the War Department moved the Winnebago Indians into the strip from the land east of the Mississippi which they had ceded to the whites.

The plan was to give the peaceful Winnebagos tools, educate them and let them farm the land. But the Indians took a dim view of it.

The Winnebagoes were fearful of being wiped out by the war-like Sioux on the north and the Sac and Fox on the south. As far as those tribes were concerned, the Winnebagoes were usurpers in their traditional hunting grounds.

To protect the Winnebagoes and induce them to stay, Brig. Gen. Henry Atkinson ordered the fort erected. But the plan didn't work out.

Nine years later some 2,500 Winnebagoes and 1,600 ponies were moved by Army wagon north to near Blue Earth, Minn., then part of Iowa territory. The last troops left Ft. Atkinson later that year.

A sequel was that the Winnebago, terrified of the Sioux and in closer proximity to them than ever, moved to Nebraska and found refuge with the Omaha Indians. They still live in Nebraska.

After the troops moved out, the old fort here fell into disrepair. Settlers salvaged glass, hardware, windows and doors from the stone buildings, and used the old stockade for firewood.

The War Department sold the remaining buildings in 1855 for $3,521, and the land was sold to settlers at $1.25 an acre. The present caretaker of the partly reconstructed fort, S. W. Pavlovec, recalls having played in cornfields on the site as a boy some 50 years ago.

The state of Iowa acquired the fort site in 1921, but it wasn't until a year ago that it was dedicated as an historical point of interest.

The old blockhouse has been rebuilt and now houses a museum. Still intact are the old cannon and magazine buildings, and the foundation of the officers' barracks can be seen.

Three Accidents Reported In City

Public Safety Officers investigated three weekend accidents and in one issued a ticket.

A car driven by Harold O. Carlson, 50, of 537 N. Houghton, was hit in the front by a car driven by Michael J. Leckson, 22, of Garden, which was backing on River St., after both cars had stopped at a stop sign. The accident occurred at 9:55 p. m., Nov. 22.

At 10:55 a. m., Nov. 23, a car driven by Ida Rice, 48, of Gulliver, backed from a private drive and hit a car operated by Charlene Ann Mercier, 18, of Garden and parked on Pearl.

Frederick A. Shoup, 30, of 303 Lake was ticketed for improper starting after an accident at 10:40 a. m., Nov. 23. Shoup pulled from a parked position into a car driven by Leonard E. Schmucker, 40, of Rte. 1, parked on Lake St.

Veterans, Scouts Parade Monday In JFK Salute

In respect to the memory of President John F. Kennedy and to urge rededication to the American ideal, members of all Manistiqueu veteran and Scout organizations conducted a memorial parade and service Monday. The service took place during the hour of the funeral in St. Matthews Cathedral in Washington.

The group marched from the World War I monument on River St., through the business district to the post office, where the Rev. Terrence Donnelly prayed, with flag at half-mast, and the Rev. Ingmar Levin conducted benediction.

The veterans committee has met and indicates it will be increasingly active teaching, correcting abuses and showing the way in the tradition of American respect for the basic individual rights, derived from God, and greater devotion to freedom, government under laws, and the American creed.

U. S. Fort Built Out In Iowa To Keep Indians In

FORT ATKINSON, Iowa (AP) — Slumbering on a bluff overlooking the Turkey River in northeast Iowa is what remains of old Ft. Atkinson — only Army fort in American history built to protect one Indian tribe from another.

Ft. Atkinson might never have been built if northeast Iowa hadn't been so plentifully supplied with game.

For centuries the area was the favorite hunting ground for Indian tribes, and they fought bloody wars over it.

The Sioux to the north and the Sac and Fox to the south were carrying on sporadic warfare among themselves in northeast Iowa when the first white settlers pushed into the lands east of the Mississippi River. Uneasiness over the encroachment of the white man heightened the tension between the two tribes.

The United States then stepped in as peace maker. It established a "neutral line" running from the Upper Iowa River south and west through the Turkey River bottom southwest of Decorah. The tribes agreed to stay 20 miles on either side of the line.

That's the way things stood until 1840, when the War Department moved the Winnebago Indians into the strip from the land east of the Mississippi which they had ceded to the whites.

The plan was to give the peaceful Winnebagos tools, educate them and let them farm the land. But the Indians took a dim view of it.

The Winnebagoes were fearful of being wiped out by the war-like Sioux on the north and the Sac and Fox on the south. As far as those tribes were concerned, the Winnebagoes were usurpers in their traditional hunting grounds.

To protect the Winnebagoes and induce them to stay, Brig. Gen. Henry Atkinson ordered the fort erected. But the plan didn't work out.

Nine years later some 2,500 Winnebagoes and 1,600 ponies were moved by Army wagon north to near Blue Earth, Minn., then part of Iowa territory. The last troops left Ft. Atkinson later that year.

A sequel was that the Winnebago, terrified of the Sioux and in closer proximity to them than ever, moved to Nebraska and found refuge with the Omaha Indians. They still live in Nebraska.

After the troops moved out, the old fort here fell into disrepair. Settlers salvaged glass, hardware, windows and doors from the stone buildings, and used the old stockade for firewood.

The War Department sold the remaining buildings in 1855 for $3,521, and the land was sold to settlers at $1.25 an acre. The present caretaker of the partly reconstructed fort, S. W. Pavlovec, recalls having played in cornfields on the site as a boy some 50 years ago.

The state of Iowa acquired the fort site in 1921, but it wasn't until a year ago that it was dedicated as an historical point of interest.

The old blockhouse has been rebuilt and now houses a museum. Still intact are the old cannon and magazine buildings, and the foundation of the officers' barracks can be seen.

Three Accidents Reported In City

Public Safety Officers investigated three weekend accidents and in one issued a ticket.

Card Of Thanks

LaBrie

We wish to express our heartfelt thanks to the many friends, neighbors and relatives who by their acts of kindness in the recent illness and death of our father and grandfather, Louis LaBrie, helped to lighten our burden of sorrow. Especially do we thank Fr. Freiburger, Fr. Neil Smith for their comforting words, to the pallbearers, those who loaned cars, to the Third Order of St. Francis, to those who sent flowers and spiritual bouquets, to those who donated food and all others who helped in any way. Your kindnesses will always be remembered.

Deer Kill Over 1962 But Under Planned Quota

The deer hunt in the western Upper Peninsula ended at sundown Sunday with more deer killed than a year ago, but with fewer killed than the Conservation Department's game managers had planned.

The game supervisors want the herd reduced by the hunt to numbers which the winter range can provide with feed, to avoid loss of deer through famine. This reduction was not achieved this year, believed Joseph Vogt, Escanaba District game supervisor of the Conservation Department after a first preliminary check of data now available on the hunt.

Last year there were between 23,000 and 24,000 deer killed in the Upper Peninsula. This compared with an estimate of about 30,000 deer of all kinds killed in the season which opened Nov. 9 and closed Sunday in the U. P. west of M 77, the Blaney-Seney road. The season has another week to run in the eastern Upper Peninsula and downstate.

William Laycock, U. P. Region Conservation Department game supervisor had wanted a kill of 35,000 deer in the U. P. for wintering the herd.

Vogt doubted that the buck kill in the Escanaba District, composed of Delta and Marquette counties and the west half of Alger, was much different than that in 1962. He thought it might be a bit lower, because of the weather during the hunt period.

"We lost a lot of hunter time in the first week when it's so important," said Vogt. A lot of hunters had left the woods by the fifth day."

He said that a lot of does were shot on permit, but that not all the permits available were taken by hunters, especially in the eastern end of the district, and not all the hunters with permits filled them.

Sunday morning 11,000 deer had crossed the Mackinac Bridge and in the 1962 season there were only 9,000 in the whole season.

The final weekend of the hunt found the best conditions of the period in the Escanaba District, with snow over much of the area and colder weather. But only local hunters were left to hunt them and Vogt thought they did quite well in the final weekend.

U P. Crafts Council Chatter reported that John Gustafson sold $150 worth of pots at the Art on the Rocks Show in Marquette this fall. The show sales of art totaled $960, reports Anita Meyland. Gustafson, who teaches art in the Escanaba Area Public School has had one man shows recently at the Grinnel Galleries, Detroit, and in Senator Philip A. Hart's office in Washington.

★ ★ ★

Chatter also reports that Marvin Zehnder, the Menominee potter who gave up high school teaching to devote full time to ceramics, is now artist and designer at the Haeger Potteries at Dundee, Ill.

★ ★ ★

To show that it's not all beer and skittles with artists, either, Chatter says John Gustafson's big pot, shown at the U. P. State Fair last summer, was broken "through careless handling" in transportation to a Beulah, Mich., art show. It was insured, so it's a sale of sorts.

Dr. Robert J. Short, Kalamazoo, immediate past president of the Michigan State Dental Society, addressed the Delta County Dental Society at its meeting Saturday evening at the House of Ludington.

A specialist in dentistry for children, Dr. Short conducted a seminar on the topic of maintaining space for permanent teeth in young children. He described the newest concepts used in the treatment of mases where the necessary spac for permanent teeth is not available.

Dr. Vernon K. Johnson arranged the program and Dr. Roger Beauchamp, president of the Dental Society, conducted the meeting.

McLaughlin Will Address MUCC On Conservation

Robert C. McLaughlin, chairman of the Governor's Special Conservation Study Committees, will address the December board of directors meeting of Michigan United Conservation Clubs Dec. 7-8 at the Pick-fort Shelby Hotel, Detroit.

It is anticipated that McLaughlin, vice president of the McLouth Steel Corp., will discuss and analyze the ling-awaited report of the Governor's Committee, which is just wrapping up an eight-month examination and evaluation of the Conservation Department.

Reports indicate that the committee will turn its report over to Gov. Romney Monday, Dec. 2, and that the governor will immediately make the report public.

Tax Reform Defeat Scored

Michigan is heading into new financial problems which will mean more and higher taxes, according to the president of Michigan's largest farm group.

Speaking in Lansing, Walter Wightman, president of the the 70,000 family-member Michigan Farm Bureau, had predicted that "taxes will only go up and Michigan residents may as well recognize that they are going to have to pay higher taxes in the near future."

Wightman cited such examples as the estimated 50,000 new school children each year that must be educated at an additional state cost of $16 million. "We have a growing population of older people, at a state cost of two and a half million dollars more, plus an additional enrollment in community colleges and universities that will cost us another ten million dollars more." Wightman listed other "similar costs for services to society," that add up to $60 million additional needed from the state budget each year.

The farm leader indicated his disappointment at failure of the special session of the Legislature to agree on tax reform. "There is no other place under the present tax structure to go for these needed new state revenues except to personal and real estate property, which is already overtaxed," he said.

"Michigan farmers pay an average of 12.6 per cent of their net income in property taxes, which is well above that of surrounding states, and 40 per cent higher than the national average. It is two to three times higher than that paid by non-farm groups in Michigan," Wightman said.

To further illustrate the need for tax reform, he told of charts showing that low income groups in Michigan pay 7.3 per cent of their income in all forms of taxes. "The middle income groups pay 6.6 per cent of their incomes and the high income groups pay only 5.1 per cent.

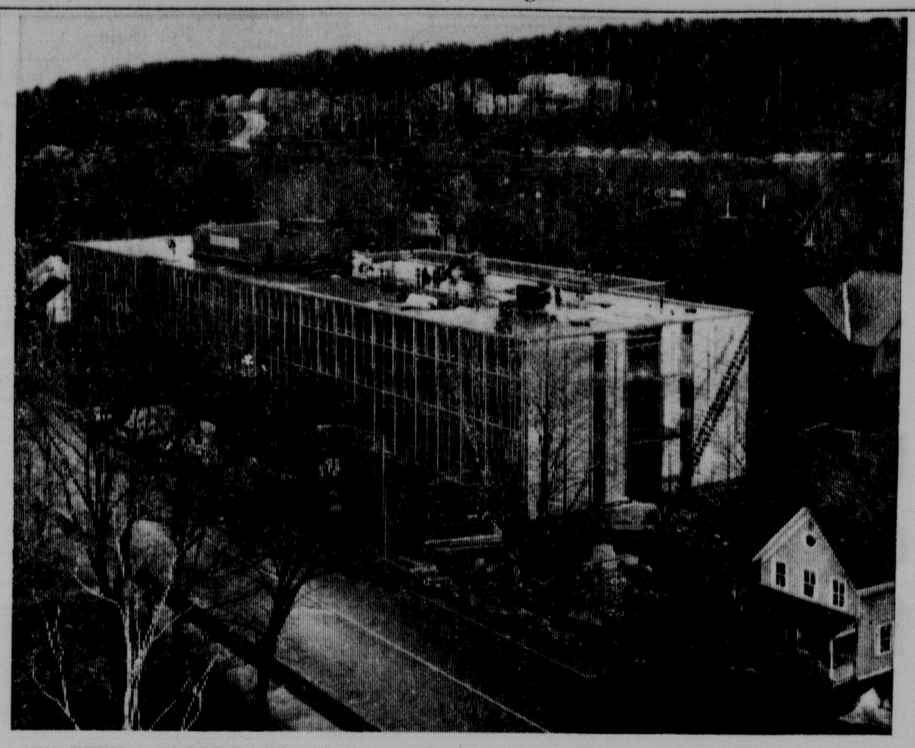

"It is high time that we realize that all taxes are 'income' taxes," he concluded.

Farm Leader Promoter For Michigan Week

Activity of business groups and the promotion of business for the state in connection with the 1964 Michigan Week will be directed by Walter Wightman, president of the Michigan Farm Bureau.

Appointment of Wightman, Allegan County farmer, as chairman of the Business and Products Board of Michigan Week is announced by Dan Gerber, president of the Greater Michigan Foundation. The 11th annual Michigan Week will be May 17-23.

Serving under Wightman will be committees representing retailers, manufacturers, restaurants, hotels, the construction industry, agriculture, and other segments of the state's economy; also committees in charge of tourist promotion, industrial promotion and promoting Michigan products.

IT'S BEEN A CLOSE RACE with the weatherman, but exterior work on Michigan Tech's Fisher Hall is virtually completed. This will enable workmen to complete the interior during the winter months, regardless of the weather. The new $2,735,000 addition to Tech's Houghton campus is scheduled for completion next spring. It will house the Departments of Mathematics and Physics and the Engineering Graphics Division of the Department of Mechanical Engineering. Pictured behind Fisher Hall is Wadsworth Hall, one of the largest college residence halls in the nation, with space for almost 1,000 students. Above Wadsworth is Daniell Heights, the housing area for Tech's married students.

Boswell Renamed Welfare Director

LANSING — Anson L. Lovellette, director of industrial relations, the Bendix Corp. Lakeshore Division, St. Joseph, was named president of the Michigan Welfare League for a third consecutive term at the organization's annual meeting held in conjunction with the 1963 state conference. Ronald O. Warner, plant manager, Chevrolet-Flint Mfg., GMC, Flint, was moved up to the position of first vice president.

Current Board members re-elected for an additional term include Dr. Claud A. Bosworth, vice president, Northern Michigan University, Marquette.

Sen. Hart Bares Stock Holdings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., made public his personal stock holdings Sunday. The voluntary move was spurred by Hart's support of a bill which would compel congressmen to disclose their finances.

Hart told reporters his outside interests in 13 companies yield $5,500 to $6,000 yearly. He did not release the stock holdings of his wife, who receives income from a trust fund set up by her father, the late Walter O. Briggs, founder of the Briggs Manufacturing Co. in Detroit.

Hart said neither he nor his wife has control over the stock dealings of administrators of the trust fund.

The list of personal stock holdings released by Hart's staff include:

Detroit Football Co. (former owner of the Detroit Lions); American Electric Co.; Briggs Manufacturing Co.; Bryn Mawr Trust Co.; Curtis Publishing Co. Electric Storage Co.; McLouth Steel Co.; General Motors Corp.; National Gypsum Corp.; Standard Oil of New Jersey; St. Regis Paper Co.; Prophets & Co.; and Kysor Heator Co.

Hart's annual salary as a Senator is $22,600.

The bill that won Hart's support was introduced by Sens. Maurine Neuberger, D-Ore.; Francis Case, R-S. D.; and Joseph Clark, D-Penn.

Fishing Conditions

There was very little fishing activity reported during the past week. Rainbow runs slowed somewhat on the Big Two-heart and it appears the fall run is about over. However, good catches of menominees were reported when winds are from the South. Big Manistique Lake is open to spearing for ciscoes until Dec. 31 and this type of fishing should be of interest to some anglers.

For those still interested, there is still prospect for fall perch fishing in Emerson Bay any the Les Cheneaux and DeTour waters.

Deer Kill Over 1962 But Under Planned Quota

The deer hunt in the western Upper Peninsula ended at sundown Sunday with more deer killed than a year ago, but with fewer killed than the Conservation Department's game managers had planned.

The game supervisors want the herd reduced by the hunt to numbers which the winter range can provide with feed, to avoid loss of deer through famine. This reduction was not achieved this year, believed Joseph Vogt, Escanaba District game supervisor of the Conservation Department after a first preliminary check of data now available on the hunt.

Last year there were between 23,000 and 24,000 deer killed in the Upper Peninsula. This compared with an estimate of about 36,000 deer of all kinds killed in the season which opened Nov. 9 and closed Sunday in the U. P. west of M 77, the Blaney-Seney road. The season has another week to run in the eastern Upper Peninsula and downstate.

William Laycock, U. P. Region Conservation Department game supervisor had wanted a kill of 35,000 deer in the U. P. for wintering the herd.

Vogt doubted that the buck kill in the Escanaba District, composed of Delta and Marquette counties and the west half of Alger, was much different than that in 1962. He thought it might be a bit lower, because of the weather during the hunt period.

"We lost a lot of hunter time in the first week when it's so important," said Vogt. A lot of hunters had left the woods by the fifth day."

He said that a lot of does were shot on permit, but that not all the permits available were taken by hunters, especially in the eastern end of the district, and not all the hunters with permits filled them.

Sunday morning 11,000 deer had crossed the Mackinac Bridge and in the 1962 season there were only 9,000 in the whole season.

The final weekend of the hunt found the best conditions of the period in the Escanaba District, with snow over much of the area and colder weather. But only local hunters were left to hunt them and Vogt thought they did quite well in the final weekend.

U P. Crafts Council Chatter reported that John Gustafson sold $150 worth of pots at the Art on the Rocks Show in Marquette this fall. The show sales of art totaled $960, reports Anita Meyland. Gustafson, who teaches art in the Escanaba Area Public School has had one man shows recently at the Grinnel Galleries, Detroit, and in Senator Philip A. Hart's office in Washington.

Chatter also reports that Marvin Zehnder, the Menominee potter who gave up high school teaching to devote full time to ceramics, is now artist and designer at the Haeger Potteries at Dundee, Ill.

To show that it's not all beer and skittles with artists, either, Chatter says John Gustafson's big pot, shown at the U. P. State Fair last summer, was broken "through careless handling" in transportation to a Beulah, Mich., art show. It was insured, so it's a sale of sorts.

Deadline Set At Dec. 20 For Lansing Bills

LANSING (AP)—Plans for a special legislative session dealing with laws to implement the new constitution were under way today in an atmosphere of bipartisan hopefulness.

Still pending were some basic decisions on which provisions of the new constitution to include—and which to omit—from the session slated to begin Tuesday.

Following a meeting with Gov. George Romney on Tuesday, legislative leaders of both parties emphasized the importance of the time factor in getting bills approved before a tentative Dec. 20 deadline.

The legislature, by working five days a week after Tuesday, would have only 14 working days.

Routine Items First

Preliminary plans called for routine items to be dealt with first, with some proposals expected to become controversial placed farther back on the schedule.

Among these, lawmakers said Tuesday, are the new state court of appeals and a bill enabling county officials to stay in office an extra two years so they can run in 1966.

In Tuesday's meeting, Romney and legislative leaders discussed the idea of avoiding partisan controversy as much as possible in the session that will fall during the period of mourning for President Kennedy.

House Minority Leader Joseph Kowalski, D-Detroit, said there are "areas of disagreement" between the two parties on some aspects of the constitution, which Democrats bitterly opposed before its approval by voters last April.

Court Setup Included

A preliminary draft of Romney's message to lawmakers indicated he intends to include the appeals court and the county officers' proposal in the special session instead of postponing them until next year.

The implementaton committee has agreed to a bill setting up the nine - member appellate court under three districts of three judges each.

The constitution requires that districts be arranged on a population basis, which means that Wayne County would be one district unto itself.

Sen. Farrell Roberts, R-Pontiac, said there may be some additional shifts before the committee's bill goes to the Legislature.

One proposed shift, it was reported, would move Ingham County into the third district, covering most of outstate Michigan, while Saginaw and Bay Counties were moved to the second district encompassing the southeastern area of the state.

READY FOR ACTION

LANSING (AP)—The bill spelling out the powers of the State Civil Rights Commission today was ready for action in the special legislative session which starts Tuesday.

The bill sailed through the House-Senate Constitutional Implementation Committee Tuesday with only a hint of controversy. But Committee Chairman Rep. Rollo Conlin, R-Tipton, predicted "a hassle" over it during the session.

Committee Co-Chairman Sen. Garry Brown, R - Schoolcraft, said the endorsement was not to be taken as a "unanimous consent with the attorney general on this."

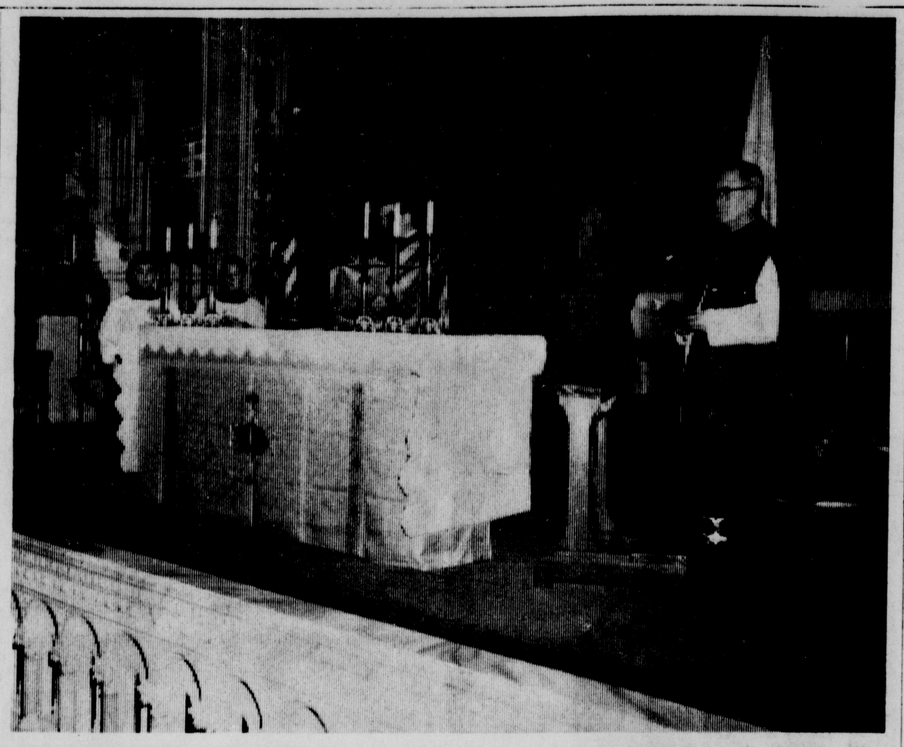

Atty. Gen.Frank Kelley last summer handed down an opinion saying the commission will have absolute power to protect civil rights in education, housing, employment, and public accommodations.

Sen. Kent Lundgren, R - Menominee, asked what limitations will be placed on the commission's powers.

He said he does not oppose the commission idea but is "afraid they're creating a huge agency with no control over it. I want to see it have reasonable control over it. I want to see it have reasonable controls on it."

Brown said the commission's spending could be limited through its legislative appropriation.

The committee approved a bill appropriating "such funds as may be necessary" to perate the commission.

FOR THE FIRST TIME in their church's 61 years, parishioners of St. Patrick's Parish will hear Mass on Thanksgiving Day celebrated by a priest facing the congregation. Traditional American practice has been to have the celebrant face the altar, with his back to the congregation, but a growing trend places the altar between priest and congregation so that he faces it. For its Mass of Thanksgiving at 9 a.m. Thursday, closing Escanaba's Centennial year, St. Patrick's Church will use the altar shown here. Gustafson Oil Co. will within the next few weeks erect two more tanks for storage of residual fuel oils at its Rapid River refinery plant.

Leader Dog Week Marked By Lions

Leader Dog Week, proclaimed by Gov. George Romney for Dec. 1-7, will direct public attention to the Lions Club's sight conservation and aid to the blind work, says Leo Knauf of the Bark River Lions Club.

The Leader Dogs for the Blind school, founded by Lions of Michigan at Rochester, Mich., in 1939 has trained nearly 2,000 leader dog teams. The school is a non-profit institution and the leader dogs are furnished without charge to all eligible applicants.

Soo Line Asks To Discontinue Strait Ferry

The historic railroad carferry service between the Peninsulas of Michigan at the Straits of Mackinac is under threat of closing.

Such a closing would leave only the rail ferry connections between the two peninsulas at Manistique, 88 miles to the west, and at Menominee, 197 miles to the west and south.

The threat to the carferry service operated by the Soo Line Railroad between St. Ignace and Mackinaw City has two elements. They are the big diversion of freight from rail movement at the Straits to truck movement over the Mackinac Bridge, and the deterioration of the last of the railroad carferries, the Chief Wawatam.

The Mackinac Transportation Co. has asked the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to abandon its railroad carferry service at the Straits because it cannot afford to repair its ferry, it was announced at Chicago this week.

John Benson, of Minneapolis, vice president of the Soo Line Railroad which owns the Mackinac Transportation Co., said that the Coast Guard has condemned the boiler of the Chief and that repairs would cost more than a half million dollars. "It would take us a long time to recover that much money on our present revenues," said Benson.

The Soo Line acquired the ferry line at the Straits when the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic Railroad, which owned the ferries, merged with it several years ago. The firm owned the Chief and the ferry Sainte Marie but the latter ferry has been sold. The Chief is an icebreaker and has maintained daily service across the Straits throughout the year, serving the Soo Line terminal at St. Ignace and the Pennsylvania and New York Central railroad terminals at Mackinaw City in Southern Michigan.

Benson said that the Soo Line regarded freight traffic loss as inevitable with the building of the Mackinac Bridge, but did not know its proportions. "We have been hurt real bad by bridge trucking," said Benson.

The rail ferry once moved pulpwood from the Upper Peninsula to Lower Peninsula mills but this traffic has ceased. The new effort to find markets for the eastern Upper Peninsula's growing forests might find a transportation resource in the carferry system, and this potential would be lost with closing of the ferry service. The bridge fees add $2 a cord to the cost of pulpwood on a round trip truck basis.

Mack Found Dead

Kiwanians Back Free Religion

Kiwanis International has gone on record as opposing "further attempts, however well intentioned, which tend to deny our national and personal trust in God, or to remove God from the corporate body of our government," according to information received here by William G. Hemes, President of the Kiwanis Club of Escanaba.

Top leaders of the big international service organization, meeting in Chicago the end of October, formally passed a resolution calling on the President and the Congress not only to stop this denial of religious expression, but "to reaffirm recognition of the spiritual heritage of this nation and its people."

The text of the resolution follows:

"The United States of America is a nation founded upon belief in God and maturing under a trust in God. In return for that trust, He has blessed us beyond all other nations and protected us from our national follies and errors.

"From Him we have derived certain inalienable rights, among which are personal and religious freedom. We in turn have shared those with all who have come to the golden door seeking personal, religious, or political freedom. We have guaranteed religious freedom by providing that there shall be separation of church and state while at all times being committeed to belief in God and His Will.

"WHEREAS, there are those who would have us interpret freedom of religion as freedom from religion, separation of state and church as separation of state and God, and

"WHEREAS, certain individuals and groups seeking to deny the dependence of this nation and its people on God have embarked on such campaigns as to effect removal of 'Under God' from the Pledge of Allegiance and 'In God We Trust' from our coinage,

"THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the President and the Congress of the United States be solemnly requested to reaffirm recognition of the spiritual heritage of this nation and its people and to oppose and prevent further attempts however well intentioned which tend to deny our national and personal Trust in God or to remove God from the corporate body of our Government."

Newberry Death Claims Curtis Man

Raymond Wilbur Swinehart, 77, died at his home in Curtis Tuesday afternoon following a lengthy illness.

Mr. Swinehart was born Sept. 12, 1886 in Missouri, and had been a resident of Curtis the past seven years.

The only survivor is his daughter, Mrs. Paul Boyer of Curtis.

The body was taken to the Gilbert Funeral Home in Ashland, Ohio where funeral services will be held later this week. Burial will be in Redhaw Cemetery in that city.
